Spanish Loyalists Form 'Last Stand' Defense

NEW CABINET PLEDGES FIGHT TO BITTER END

Government Prepares for Last Thrust at Barcelona After Series of Defeats.

FASCIST DRIVE SLOWED

Nationalists Delay Offensive to Minimize Losses as Foes Bolster for Attack.

(By United Press)

HENDAYE, FRENCH-SPANISH FRONTIER—Spanish loyalists, strengthening their resistance after four weeks of catastrophic defeats, held the nationalists at Tortosa today and formed a "last stand" defense line between Lerida and Barcelona.

They made their stand as a new cabinet, embracing the leadership of the two powerful Spanish labor unions and marking a definite turn toward the left, took office at Barcelona pledged to fight the civil war to the bitter end.

Loyalists Standing Fast.

Dispatches from both sides of the Catalonian front showed that the loyalists four weeks to the day from the start of the nationalist triple-threat Aragon offensive, were, for the moment, standing fast.

Dispatches from John de Gandt, United Press staff correspondent with the nationalist army, first disclosed that the nationalist drive on Tortosa had been slowed. The nationalists blamed bad weather and the necessity for caution to minimize losses.

Independent reports said that the loyalists now held the dominating hills on both sides of Tortosa and the Ebro river Not only were the loyalists fighting in strength in the hills on the left (northern) bank of the Ebro but it was disclosed that they had made a determined stand against Italians in a narrow gorge between the Ebro and the Sierra Montenegreto hills to the south.

Mobilize In Hills.

Further, United Press dispatches passed by the Barcelona censors, quoted "military observers" as intimating that the loyalists were forming a last stand defense line in the hills running roughly northward from the Tortosa-Tarragona area.

It was indicated that the loyalists were determined to defend Barcelona to the last, knowing that Catalonia is overwhelmingly of the extremist left wing and that its men—who have taken little effective part in the war and regard themselves Catalans, not Spaniards—have fought before with bare fists and stones against rifles and machine guns in their own causes.

Parades, Pageant Start Week-Long Marietta Festival

MARIETTA—(AP)—This pioneer city of the northwest territory launched its first full day's celebration of its 150th anniversary with an official reception and open house today at Campus Martius Museum. A parade, band concert and a second performance of the historical pageant, "Wagons West," also were on the program.

Today's festivities, however, were preliminary to the feature event of the week-long celebration when a band of 36 bewhiskered modern "pioneers" brings its barge to a landing tomorrow at the confluence of the Ohio and the Muskingum rivers here.

"Miss Marietta," pageant queen crowned at the opening performance last night, reigned over the parade today in which 12 school and fraternal bands and drum corps participated.

Meanwhile, the collegiate pioneers, who left Ipswich, Mass., last December, shoved off from Martins Ferry in boats they built while wintering at West Newton, Pa.

Davey 3rd Term Bandwagon In City Tonight

Governor Comes to Mansfield After Tossing Hat In Ring at Youngstown; Addresses Nine-County Meeting at High School, Dines With Leaders Before Rally.

Mansfield today became the center of Democratic campaign activity, with Gov. Martin L. Davey's bandwagon rolling into the city on the heels of the governor's announcement at Youngstown last night that he will be a candidate for a third term.

Davey is due to arrive here about 6 p. m. from Columbus to make a brief talk at a dinner at the First M. E. church and then continue his campaign at Senior high school auditorium at 8 p. m., where he is scheduled to address a nine-county rally on "State Government."

4,500 Hear Youngstown Talk.

Considered a certain candidate for several months, Davey formally threw his hat into the gubernatorial ring before a crowd of 4,500 last night at Youngstown, the center of last summer's steel strike.

In his address here tonight, Davey is expected to resume the defense of his administration which he started at Columbus Monday night and carried to Youngstown last night.

Postcard invitations to tonight's rally were mailed from Kent, O., Davey's home, to hundreds of Democrats in the city and county. The governor's signature was stamped on the cards, which went to state and county Democratic employes and county officials.

E. B. Kallmerten, Richland county Democratic executive committee chairman, who invited the governor to speak here, will preside at the dinner meeting and the rally.

Kallmerten said about 150 Democratic leaders from nine counties

Unlike Coolidge, Gov. Martin L. Davey, who speaks in Mansfield tonight, chooses to run. He announced yesterday he would be a candidate for a third term, seeking to equal "Honest Vic" Donahey's record of three consecutive terms.

POPE WARNS

Rights of Catholics Must Be Guaranteed, Hitler Told.

VATICAN CITY—(INS)—Pope Pius today ordered presented to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler a virtual ultimatum to guarantee fully the rights of Catholics in Austria as the basis of any new Concordat between the reich and the Holy See.

The pontiff took his vigorous action to safeguard prerogatives of the Roman Catholic church in the course of a long conference with Cardinal Innitzer, Archbishop of Vienna.

He took occasion at the same time to subject Innitzer to an hour-long tongue-lashing for his approval of the Nazi annexation of Austria without previous sanction of the Vatican and then formulated a brief note to Hitler laying down the Holy See's minimum demands

FARMER KILLED BY FAST TRAIN

Dies Instantly as Pennsy Flyer Strikes His Car at Loudonville Crossing.

(By Staff Correspondent)

LOUDONVILLE—Charles Miller, 68, farmer of near Lakeville, was killed instantly at 8:47 p. m. Tuesday when the automobile he was driving was struck by the eastbound Red Arrow, crack Pennsylvania train, at the Market street crossing in Loudonville.

Miller's body and car were carried nearly a mile along the tracks by the speeding train. His body was badly mangled and the car was reduced to a mass of tangled metal.

Eastbound traffic on the railroad was delayed three hours while a locomotive was taken from Mansfield to replace the one pulling the train, which was damaged by the crash.

A witness to the accident said he tried vainly to warn Miller who drove onto the tracks apparently without seeing the approaching train.

Miller's body was removed to a Loudonville funeral home pending completion of funeral arrangements.

Unmarried, he is survived by a nephew, Floyd Pow, whom he had been visiting in Loudonville, and three sisters, Mrs. Mary E. Miller of Hartville; Mrs. Ida Pow of Loudonville, and Mrs. Daisy Shearer of Lakeville.

A native of Holmes county, Miller was born Feb. 1, 1870 at Lakeville

Burly Iron Worker's Bag of Women's Clothes Murder Clue

(By United Press)

VAN HORN, Tex.—District Attorney Roy D. Jackson announced today that expensive feminine finery found in the possession of an iron worker was "strikingly" similar to the wardrobes of Mrs. Weston C. Frome and her daughter, Nancy, who were murdered in the wastelands nine miles from here last Wednesday.

The iron worker was Jack Ferguson, 30, a blond, powerful man, who was arrested in McCamey, 160 miles east of here, while trying to sell a leather overnight bag filled with feminine clothes.

"I suppose you're trying to pin that Van Horn job on me," he said. "Anytime anything happens they try to pin it on me. Why?"

Authorities did not have an accurate or complete list of the contents of the three bags taken from Mrs. and Miss Frome after they had been murdered. For that reason the one bag Ferguson had and its contents may have to be sent to Berkeley, Calif., the home of the Fromes, for definite identification.

Jackson was elated by Ferguson's arrest. He said that the man's handkerchief which was found clutched in the dead hand of Miss Frome was initialed "F." He said that some of the clothes found in the bag which Ferguson was trying to sell, had been pur-

COUNCIL GROUP URGES $30,000 CITY PROGRAM

Recommends General Bonds to Finance Park and Sewer Work, Fire Equipment.

PREPARE LEGISLATION

City-Wide Park Improvements, Sewer Expansions, New Pumper Included.

The issuance of $30,000 in general bonds within the 10-mill limitation, was recommended by council's finance committee last night for improvements in three city departments.

Outlined by Fred Miller, chairman of the committee, the program includes appropriations for developing the city's park system, storm sewer extensions, and three separate improvements in the fire department, one of them being the purchase of one new piece of apparatus.

Miller pointed out that the bonds could be issued without submitting them to the voters because they would be within the 10-mill limitation as allowed by law.

Action Due At Next Session.

Council authorized City Solicitor Marion D. Ward to draft the necessary legislation for presentation at the next regular meeting.

Half of the total amount of the bond issue is for improvements to bolster the fire department. Miller said the committee suggested $8,500 for the purchase of a new pumper to replace one of the 20-year-old trucks now in service.

Another $1,500 would be set aside for fire hydrants which he explained would buy about 20 fire plugs. The other $5,000 would go for improving the fire and police signal system to carry on the extensive underground program started last year. It was explained that the revamping of the system was made necessary by the removal of circuits from utility poles

NEW TEST DUE

Reorganization Foes Hurry Move to Kill Bill.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The house struggle over government reorganization moved rapidly today toward a crucial test of strength—an opposition proposal to kill the bill before any conciliatory amendments can be dopted.

This strategy was devised by leaders of the coalition of Republicans and insurgent Democrats after they decided to reject compromises held out by administration lieutenants.

As soon as general debate ends, the foes agreed, they will move to "strike out the enacting clause"—the introduction to the bill which says, "be it enacted by the senate and the house of representatives." Without the clause, the bill would be just so much paper.

WOMAN KEY IN DEATH PLUNGE

Chicago Police Seek Guest of Department Store Operator.

CHICAGO — (INS) — A pretty young woman with a southern accent who dined with him in the room a short time before was sought today as the key figure in the mystery death plunge of a wealthy Dubuque, Ia., department store operator.

The victim was Isadore J. Olansky, 34, who plummeted to his death from his twelfth floor room in a downtown hotel. There were no notes left in the room and relatives expressed the belief the fall had been accidental.

Mansfield Mother Retains Her Faith In Air Travel

Mrs. Dirlam, Two Children Lost In Disaster, Says She Still Believes In Airplanes.

Mrs Jay N. Dirlam, Mansfield mother whose son, Tracy, and daughter, Mary Lou, were lost when a TWA airliner disappeared March 1 in California, still believes in air travel.

Her two children had boarded a plane at San Francisco to hurry to Mansfield to be with their father, who was on his death bed. He died without knowing anything of the fate that had befallen his children, and the day after he was buried, Mrs. Dirlam and her father, Rufus A. Tracy, left for Palo Alto, Cal., to be near the area in which the plane was believed to have disappeared.

Mrs. Dirlam expressed her views on air travel in an interview printed in the current issue of Time magazine.

"Under the same circumstances," she is quoted as saying, "I would still advise my children to take a plane. I am convinced the disappearance of the plane was one of those unavoidable accidents. The plane was of the best and the pilots were among the best."

Actress Disagrees.

In the same story, Fannie Ward, American actress, takes a directly opposite view of air travel.

Her son-in-law and her daughter (an only child), Lord and Lady Plunkett of London, were killed in a plane crash several weeks ago.

Said the actress, according to Time, "I am taking my loved ones

"They met and married in an atmosphere of nudity. It was artistic for her to display her charms for customers at the night club and I do not think it was lewdity to do that at the party."

CHEATS CHAIR

Wounded Police Killer Dies In Ohio Pen's 'Death Row.'

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Carl Boettcher, 24, of Cleveland, cheated Ohio penitentiary's electric chair today, dying of a bullet wound received in a gun battle with police here Feb. 4.

Boettcher was under sentence to die July 29 for the death of Detective Robert Cline, one of three persons slain in the gun fight which resulted when detectives trapped four bank robber suspects in a west side rooming house. The other victims were Boettcher's companions.

A bullet from a policeman's gun shattered Boettcher's spine, paralyzing him. His mother, who had expressed a wish that he would die before being sent to the electric chair, was at his bedside in "death row."

King Winter Stages Coup, Boss Again

Snow, Hail, Rain Cover City, State; Blizzard Sweeps Mid-west.

Spring, which hadn't been making much progress in the past week anyway, did a terrific job of back-sliding last night and today. It began to look as though Old Man Winter, who was supposed to have ben deposed last month, had engineered a coup (they're pulling them off in Europe all the time) and had taken control of things again.

There was snow, hail and rain in great quantities in Mansfield and most of Ohio. Driving was treacherous, airport traffic was grounded, and there was danger in some places of heavy damage to early budding fruit trees.

In Mansfield, temperatures dropped to 25 degrees, seven below freezing. At 10 a. m. Observer Otto Sprunger said the mercury stood at 32.

The forecast offered little hope of relief. It said "Rain and warmer tonight. Thursday, snow and colder."

Sprunger reported the average temperatures for the past 24 hours at 35.5 degrees, 14 below normal. Yesterday's high was 46.

Snow began falling early this morning, and was followed by intermittent downpours of hail and rain.

Driving was highly dangerous, rain freezing on roads and windshields, making is necessary for traffic to move at a slow pace, and forcing drivers to stop frequently to remove ice from their windshields.

Worst In Years.

Other states as well as Ohio were hard hit by the storm, characterized as one of the worst spring snowstorms in recent years.

Four and a half inches of snow mantled Chicago at an early hour, with the fall continuing steadily and below-zero weather forecast. Northwest Michigan was gripped by a blizzard. Eight inches of snow fell at Paw Paw, Mich., and five at Kalamazoo.

At Louisville, Ky., a drop in the temperature severely damaged cherry and peach trees.

At Denver, the thermometer zoomed from 64 to 24. There was snow throughout the northwest and all planes were grounded. Similar conditions prevailed in Iowa, where ice and sleet impaired traffic and interrupted transportation. Five inches of snow fell at Mason City.

Heavy, thick flakes began swirling down about 5 a. m. Two inches of snow blanketed Toledo within three hours.

RAID SWANKY CHICAGO CLUB

Chicago Police Seize Gambling Equipment From 100 Guests.

CHICAGO—(INS)—State's attorney's police early today swept down on the Chez Paree, swanky night club featuring the singing of Harry Richman, and took a truck load of expensive gambling equipment right out from under a hundred smartly attired men and women patrons.

The raid, one of a series punctuating a hot primaries campaign in which State's Attorney Courtney is a prominent figure, landed three men in jail, though the customers were allowed to go home.

REPUBLICANS WANT BRIDGES ON COMMITTEE

G. O. P. Senators Say They'll Refuse to Serve Unless TVA Foe's Named.

TWO VACANCIES ALREADY

Garner Faces Task of Naming Replacements for Borah and McNary Refusing Posts.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Vice President Garner encountered difficulty today in filling two vacancies on the TVA investigating committee because of a reported Republican attempt to force appointment of Senator Bridges (R., N. H.)

Bridges is an outspoken foe of the Tennessee Valley authority. Garner, in choosing five senate members of the congressional committee, had said he wanted impartial men.

He first selected Senators McNary of Oregon and Borah of Idaho as the Republican members, but they declined to serve. Several others among the 14 Republican senators said privately they too would refuse unless Bridges was appointed.

Norris to Object.

Senator Norris (Ind., Neb.), foremost senate supporter of TVA, said he would object to selection of Bridges, who recently announced he would like to be on the committee. Norris had eliminated himself from consideration as not being impartial and had urged Bridges to do likewise.

Besides Borah and McNary, Garner appointed Senators Donahey (D., Ohio), Schwartz (D., Wyo.) and Brown (D., N. H.) Speaker Bankhead selected Representatives Mead (D., N. Y.), Driver (D., Ark.), Thompson (D., Tex.), Jenkins R., Ohio) and Wolverton (R., N. J.) All but Donahey and Mead are lawyers.

Borah opposed a joint inquiry on the ground the committee would be so large as to be unwieldly. McNary said he would not serve because he needed a rest and could not spare the time from his duties on the Republican senatorial campaign committee.

Senator Schwartz, a former newspaperman who said he would serve as a "100 per cent impartial" member, urged that hearings be delayed until after congress

BLUM VICTOR

Gets Vote of Confidence In Emergency Power Demand.

PARIS — (AP) — Premier Leon Blum apparently received a vote of confidence today when the chamber of deputies voted on his demand for decree powers over finance. An unofficial count was 310 to 245 for the Socialist premier.

Blum had staked the life of his people's front government on this test, which came after a bitter debate on his demand for emergency powers until July 1 to cope with the nation's financial difficulties.

In the debate former Premier Pierre Etienne Flannin, one of the most stalwart opponents of the premier, attacked his program as "a copy" of President Roosevelt's "experiment which has failed."

Senator Hurley Fires Back at Dems Trying to 'Stop' Him

State Senator William F. Hurley, whose 27-29th district includes Richland county, and who apparently will not have the support of the Davey-controlled Democratic organization for a second term, today fired a blast at those political leaders who are seeking to "stop" him.

Democratic organization leaders are to meet here today, to consider the district's senate situation. They have announced that they will "consider possible candidates" but it was reliably learned that the real purpose of the meeting is to map "Stop Hurley" strategy.

Hurley has been associated with the anti-Davey group in the senate which the governor has termed the "hatchet men."

Announcing in Lorain, his home, that he will be a candidate for a second term Hurley charged that local Democratic bosses in the district are "political heelers who banquet on rottenness and fatten on corruption."

Asserting that "local politicians hooked up with Davey have tried to bulldoze me into falling into line with them," he bitterly assailed the reported move to eliminate him from the 1938 picture

"Now the administration hirelings are trying to put into action Davey's 'Russian purge.'

"I have confidence in the people of the district and am willing to

6 Injured as $350,000 Fire Wrecks Portsmouth Block

BLAZE SWEEPS 3 FLOORS OF OLD LANDMARK

Death of Woman Indirectly Attributed to Flames In Heart of City.

(By Associated Press)

PORTSMOUTH — Fire Chief Robert Leedom estimated today at between $300,000 and $350,000 the damage caused by one of this Ohio river town's fiercest fires which last night wrecked the historic Kricker building in the heart of the business district.

Starting in the basement of the downtown landmark, flames quickly spread to the third floor of the structure containing business establishments and offices. Within a few hours only blackened brick walls were left standing despite the efforts of all available fire fighters and equipment.

Six men were injured and a woman's death was attributed indirectly to the blaze. Joseph Gowdy, a volunteer fireman, was cut on the hand by falling glass and John Redden, 21, was cut on the head in the same manner. Mrs. Joseph Diener, 54, complained of being ill while watching the flames and died a short time later of a heart attack in a physician's office.

Power Shut Off.

Thousands of persons thronged the downtown area to watch the blaze made spectacular by a temporary power failure which extinguished street lights and stalled trolley cars. Communication facilities also were interrupted for a time.

J. F. Carr, proprietor of the jewelry store bearing his name, estimated his loss at $50,000. Other establishments in the gutted building were:

The Commercial Building and Loan company, Co-operative Finance company, Criterion Clothing store, Murphy Dress shop, all on the ground floor. Offices of three real estate concerns, an insurance firm, an attorney, the Y. M. C. A., the Portsmouth Welfare association and the local National Youth administration were on the second floor. The Portsmouth Interstate Business college occupied the third floor.

Fire fighting equipment from suburban New Boston South Webster and Vanceburg, Ky., 25 miles down the river, were rushed to the city for emergency protection.

CHICAGO FIRE KILLS 7

CHICAGO — (UP) — Seven men were killed and two others were injured seriously early today in a fire which swept through the upper floors of a four-story, frame hotel.

One of the injured was expected to die.

Attendants at the county morgue reported the victims had suffered slight burns but that death was caused by suffocation. They believed the men were overcome by smoke while asleep.

The fire started on the third floor of the Center hotel, located between two other small hotels in an impoverished section of West Madison street.

Seven winners of elimination contests will compete for the district award, and the winning act will return to the Ohio a week from Thursday with the other district winners, all of whom will make a tour of the six theaters in the state who are participating in the talent quest.

Those who will take part in the final contest tomorrow night are: James Kondos, singer; Leona Mauer, Galion, singing and guitar; The Three Grace Notes, (Jane Weuthrich, Dorothy Clingan and Ruth Cox) trio of harmonizers; Ralph Smith, Galion, ventriloquist; John Lutsch, Ashland, baritone; trio from Ashland, (Lois Lowe, Lucille Yeader, Betty Batterson), and Edna Wadell, singer. Of the seven acts, only three are from Mansfield.

The acts from the six Ohio theaters will compete later for the state award with the prize being a trip to New York City for screen and radio tests.

There was a minor fire in the Citizens National bank this morning but the fire department wasn't called. It was put out by C. W. "Cub" Marks who blew it out. The only damage was to Marks' faith in his fellow man and about a dollar's worth of "ivory" elk tooth. Marks loaned a chap $2 on a "genuine" elk's tooth, which he was assured was worth a great deal of money. Marks in turn offered to sell it to Kent Rummel for just what he had in it—$2. But Rummel wears a real tooth and was certain that Cub's was a phoney. As a test, he suggested that Marks apply a match to it. When the flame struck the celluloid tooth there was a puff and flash and Marks blew with all his breath to put out the fire. When the laughter of observers died away, Marks had just about a dollar's worth of his $2 tooth left.

PAVING OF 3 STREETS, SEWERS FOR 3 OTHERS OK'D BY COUNCIL

Preliminary legislation for the paving of three city streets at a cost of approximately $30,000 along with the construction of sanitary sewer lines on three other streets was approved by city council last night.

The legislation calls for the paving of Ausdale avenue from West Park boulevard to Linden road, Bartley avenue from Glessner avenue to Parkview street, and Willis avenue from First street to Arch street.

The property owners' share of the improvements is figured at approximately $25,000 with the city's share of $5,000 to be paid from the auto registration fee fund.

A two-inch sanitary sewer line is to be constructed on Overlook avenue, Coleman road, and Barnard avenue. Specifications call for the sewer to be built on Overlook avenue from Lawnview avenue to Barnard, east on Coleman road to Euclid avenue and then over Barnard avenue to Marion avenue.

Council also authorized Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert to enter into a contract with the Madison township trustees for fire protection to be furnished by the city for the annual sum of $2,000. The contract was negotiated by a special council committee and is for a term of two years.

A measure amending an ordinance regulating leaves of absence for members of the police department also was approved. The amendment changes the vacation period from two weeks to 14 working days off for officers with more than one year service.

City Solicitor Marion D. Ward explained the change was made in the city ordinance in order to clarify that section. He said state examiners had recommended such action in their annual report.

Council also authorized the engineering department to change the grade of McPherson street.

BUILD SPILLWAY

City Acts to Remedy Flooding of Shepard Road.

A spillway and 250 feet of storm sewer, to remedy conditions that make Shepard road impossible during rainy weather, were under construction by street department employes today, Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert said.

The improvement which will cost approximately $250, was being made on Shepard road just west of Crescent drive, Styert said. Plans call for the construction of a spillway and a 12-inch storm sewer to drain the low section of the street.

Styert recalled that there has been agitation for the improvement for some time because high water after a rain makes the roadway impassable. He added that the storm sewer will empty into a natural water course just south of Shepard road. The work is expected to be completed within a week.

NLRB UPHOLDS LEWIS' STAND ON LABOR PACTS

Directs Inland Steel Company to Bargain With Committee In Interpreting Act.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The National Labor Relations Board ruled today that an employer's refusal to sign a contract with a union constituted a violation of the Wagner act.

Holding that a written agreement between employer and employe is an "integral element" of the collective bargaining process, the board ordered the Inland Steel company, Chicago, to bargain with the Steel Workers Organizing committee and, if agreement is reached on wages, hours and other conditions of employment, to sign a contract with the union.

Establishes Precedent.

The decision established a new and far-reaching precedent under the Wagner act and upheld the contentions of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization in the bitter "little steel" strike last summer.

The ruling was confined to the Inland company but was believed to be the forerunner of similar decisions against other independent steel companies which have refused to sign contracts with the CIO's steel union. The issue almost certainly will be decided eventually by the supreme court.

Other independent steel companies which have refused to sign contracts with the CIO include Republic Steel corporation, Bethlehem Steel company, National Steel company, Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, and Weirton Steel company. They produce about 25 per cent of the nation's steel.

The labor board's decision emphasized that employers are not compelled to agree upon any particular terms with the union, but that they are required to accept the procedure of collective bargaining, which, it was held, calls for a written agreemnt on understandings.

But it said that the decision did not, by implication, make oral agreements unlawful, if they are satisfactory to both employers and employes.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Down In Louisiana When They Like a Fellow They Let the World Know It.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The mail brings dozens, maybe hundreds, of pamphlets and papers amounting to thousands of columns of propaganda, and most of them are thrown away, some after just a glance, many in their original wrappers. In this manner, no doubt, many nuggets of information are lost, and it must be thus that I missed, a little less than a year ago, one of the most interesting political papers of 1937, the special edition of 64 pages turned out by the "Daily Progress," of Hammond, La., to celebrate Richard W. Leche's first anniversary as governor.

This paper is a derivative of Huey Long's "Louisiana Progress" and is a journalistic curiosity in that it has no masthead that I have been able to discover after three careful friskings of the copy which I recently obtained through the courtesy of a private citizen of Lousiana. The masthead of a paper is that portion above the leading editorial which gives the paper's business address and names the publisher, editor and so forth.

This edition contains a full-page advertisement of the municipality of Monroe, La., price $500, payment for which has been protested in the courts on the ground that it would be a political contribution to Governor Leche's machine. It is the most rapturous volume of praise that I have ever seen, as fulsome as anything ever published in Italy or Germany to the glory of Il Duce or Der Fuehrer, but bigger.

It is unreserved in its appreciation of the superhuman virtues and achievements of that handsome young man. He and the source of these tributes are no less interesting than their text, which is much too long to be quoted.

There is a full-page advertisement of Lousiana State university, "contributed" to the governor's anniversary by "friends" of the university. There is a full-page advertisement of a state insane asylum, also "contributed" by its "friends." The Charity hospital of New Orleans, the Shreveport Charity hospital and Southwestern Institute (a college) each took a page through the "contributions" of "friends." The Louisiana congressional delegation, eight congressmen and two senators, kicked in for a page. So did the honorable justices of the Louisiana supreme court, the City of New Orleans, the New Orleans board of levee commissioners, the state conservation commission, the board of commissioners of the Port of New Orleans, the state highway commission, the state board of health and the cities of Baton Rouge, Hammond and Lake Charles.

There is a one-page ad whose sponsor is unidentified but apparently is the state itself—a spontaneous tribute to a great man. "Friends" of Eastern Louisiana hospital "contribute" a half-page testimonial of that institution, and "citizens of New Orleans" are similarly moved on behalf of the sewage and water board and the public belt railroad commission. Contractors, cement companies and insurance brokers add to the chorus of appreciation, all with good reason.

On two whole pages the progress bursts into joyous acclaim on its own responsibility, and aside from the paid cheers there are twenty columns in width of photographs of Governor Leche, one showing him in the act of receiving flowers for his buttonhole from two co-eds who are described as "thrilled, no end," by the honor and privilege.

There are also four cartoons of four columns each, one of which depicts a check citing the fact that since the hour of the political compromise with the White House, known as the second Louisiana Purchase, the federal government had spent $75,000,000 in relief disbursements in Louisiana. In this picture one figure says, "remember how these campaign spielers tried to scare us about Louisiana gettin' no money from Washington if Leche was elected?" And the other says, "they were real calamity howlers. They had an old aunt of mine on the verge of collapse."

This edition was published on May 14 last, and the time of the wonder-man's second anniversary is now approaching, a date of which the many admiring boards, commissions and municipal councils and the "friends" of the lunatic asylum, the charity hospitals and the sewers doubtless have received reminders ere this from the advertising department of Governor Leche's personal political organ.

Organ? chum, that is no organ. That is the massed bands of all the official departments, state and municipal, in all Louisiana.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Here and there:

Helen Wilson, of whom you probably never heard, has spent more than $1,000,000 on clothes during the past eight years. But she dresses simply and comparatively inexpensively, and on her shopping tours—almost daily—you wouldn't pick her out for a big buyer.

That's what she is—wardrobe shopper for Selznick's pictures. She spends whole days shopping, says she gets as much kick out of ordering a string of beads as she does commandeering a whole bolt of $50 a yard material.

When she became a studio buyer, her first assignment was to find clothes and materials for Mae Murray and Eleanor Boardman. She took the stars along, and later Billie Dove, Colleen Moore and Fay Wray shopped with her for picture clothes.

But now her expeditions are solo. Carole Lombard, Janet Gaynor, Madeleine Carroll stayed at the studio when Helen went buying. The stars could have gone along, had they wished, but the public — with autograph books handy would have slowed down the work. So Helen orders stuff on approval. About half of it is kept and she considers that a high percentage.

In "Jezebel" Bette Davis drove a caleche, which the studio rented for $15 a day but paid $250 to put in shape.

Lee Sheldon, the vehicle and animal man at Warner's, bemoans the shortage of old-fashioned carriages of which he had to procure sixteen for this film. There are buckboards and farm wagons in plenty but few "carriage trade" vehicles—victories, landaus, and barouches.

Sheldon knows six or seven "horse men" who rent livestock and vehicles to studios. The trouble is, the carriages are used only two or three times a year and the rest of the time they serve as chicken roosts in the barns. That's why it costs $250 to restore Bette's caleche.

Sheldon would like to start his own stable of fine carriages. If he had a couple of months to tour the country, he knows he could find any number.

FEDERATION MEMBERS HAVE FINAL MEETING

Women Entertained at Club With Tea, Reviews of Two Books by Guest Speaker, Mrs. Leona Hole, Yesterday Afternoon.

A TEA and two book reviews comprised the program of the final meeting of the Mansfield Federation of Women yesterday at the Women's Club. Mrs. Leona Hole, who is a member of the Higbee company book shop staff, reviewed "RFD" by Charles Allen Smart and "Action at Aquila" by Hervey Allen.

The first volume, which was a selection of the Book of the Month club last month, is the story of farm life near Chillicothe. The author, who was a New Yorker, inherited this farm and during the depression went there to live. He tells of the inconveniences and privations and advances his theories of farming and farm life. His main contention is that the future of farming lies in co-operation.

"Action at Aquila" is similar to "Anthony Adverse" in that it takes the experiences of one individual and weaves them into a tale. It is a story of the Civil war and the battle fought at Aquila in the Shenandoah valley. The main character, a northern colonel, describes his experiences with a southern family.

Following the reviews and the short business meeting of the organization tea was served from a small table presided over by Mrs. Grace Burns.

Reader Commends Miss Lee

By VIRGINIA LEE

J. H. P. commends my column and says she has been reading it for a long time. She notices, she writes, that I do not advise divorce for every little bit of trouble married couples have. Then she tells the following story:

"Some years ago I lived near a neighbor and her husband. The father of three children, quite young at that time, didn't make life very cheerful and happy because, although he was a good provider, and had some very good points, he also had some very bad habits. One of them was his habit of getting drunk and coming home and raising the dickens, damaging furniture, using profane and immodest language; in other words, being just as mean as any person could be.

Wife Fine Person.

"Now this man's wife happened to be a fine, honest, industrious woman, the type any man could well appreciate, and I would often think to myself, I wonder how long she will be able to stand this trouble and abuse. Then one day someone told me this man had taken the pledge and quit drinking, and I wondered if it could be possible. A week went by and I didn't see or hear any trouble, and then month after month went by and I never saw him come home drunk any more.

"And do you believe it, this man turned out to be one of the finest men I ever saw. He was advanced several times at his place of employment and finally was made superintendent. Our family and his became very friendly. It surely was a pleasure to spend the evening at their house; and I never saw a happier woman in all my life.

"Then one day many years later the husband was taken sick and died, and that was more than this fine woman could stand. She was taken sick and died broken hearted, and thus put an end to this happy home.

"I know this was one true love, because if it were not so, it would have been wrecked long ago in the divorce courts."

The hope that a man may come to see how drink is wrecking his life and stop, is the hope of every woman who goes through what this wife did. Thank you for your letter, J. H. P. I hope it will encourage some fine man who has this unfortunate habit to break it. It takes will power to do it, but it has been done time and time again.

For variety sprinkle some grated cheese over the top of raisin, apple or mince pie and heat for five minutes in a moderate oven. Serve at once.

When serving creamed carrots for a change add a few stalks of celery, diced and boiled, and one onion, boiled and cut up fine.

Hair Should Flatter Face Lines

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

"WEAR YOUR hair to flatter your face and figure" says Joan Fontaine, movie star.

This department certainly agrees with her thoroughly. Especially since the day has come when it can be done without being out of step with the style parade.

Of course the most important point in choosing a coiffure is to take stock of your good and bad features. You'll have to take a few minutes off and sit down and face your mirror. That's simply because most of us haven't a very accurate knowledge of how we look. We've seen too much of ourselves. So try to look at yourself with the unprejudiced eyes of a stranger. Don't be discouraged if you have a long nose, a low forehead, a wide face or a forceful jaw. Take yourself as an individual case and pick a hair arrangement that will suit your type and show you at your best.

If you want to appear taller, coronet braids or curls piled high on your head will add height. This kind of headdress will also give you added poise and make you look much more sonhisticated.

Don't try a heavy, thick style of hair arrangement if you think your head is too large. Have your hair thinned, so it will never look bushy, and wear it combed close to your head.

Side Part Safest for Most.

The side part is a safe bet for most girls. And be careful to avoid a center part with hair drawn straight back, unless you have classic features. You'll look pretty severe with this arrangement. And don't try any sort of a middle parting if you have a broad face or a heavy jaw.

With sloping shoulders you will need a squaring off effect to make your neck seem shorter. Hair dressed flat on top of your head and arranged low on your neck is a good tip, but don't have your hair lines running parallel to your sloping shoulders unless you want to look generally drooping.

Curls which turn backward are best for saucy upturned noses. Hooked noses look more classic when the curls are turned upward. And a receding chin will look much more prominent if your hair is combed upward, with the ears showing a little. If your chin protrudes it will look less determined if you wear the hair in a long bob.

So pick your type and take you choice. A turn of the brush and comb may be the difference between beauty and ugliness.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, April 7.

According to the lunar aspects, there may be perplexing conditions with much of benefit and constructive effort, together with stubborn obstacles, setbacks, postponements or disappointments, to contend with on this day. There may be much adventure in store, especially in promoting new projects. Tact and diplomacy may iron out tenacious difficulties, but be careful with finances and expenditures.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may find a year of much opportunity awaiting in spite of obstructions, postponements and frustrating circumstances. It is probable best results may come from dealing with secret bodies, fraternal, political or diplomatic circles, or through methods of tact and subtlety. It will take strict regulation of budgets and wisdom in expenditures to gain success.

A child born on this day, while having much depth of character, may also be disposed to boastfulness, extravagance and excessive generosity, which may be the cause of fluctuating fortunes.

Cocoa stains may be quickly and easily removed with boiling water and borax. Spread the borax on the stain, then place the linen over a bowl and pour hot water onto the stain.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I READ Mary's note with divided attention, for part of my brain was focused upon the colloquy between Dicky and the unknown woman on the other side of the partition. For, despite my loathing of the whole situation, I found myself wondering what reply the woman would make to Dicky's abrupt denial of her wheedling request for a drink with the comment that she had had "enough and to spare already," and that later on, if she behaved herself, perhaps he'd order her one.

But evidently his fierce anger at her mention of me had cowed her, if only temporarily, and she made but a half-hearted protest against his decision.

"You're just an old meanie," she told him, and there was a coquettishness in her voice which literally "set my teeth on edge." Then, after a pause, she added pleadingly:

"How good do I have to be to have a drink after a while?"

"A lot better than you've been lately," Dicky retorted. "You've been hitting the booze disgustingly—witness your performance of the other night. I ought to have you put in jail for that."

There was a weariness, a disgust in his voice that would have stung the most hardened of women. That it reached its mark I knew when her leaping answer came in accents edged with venom.

"Take care, my bouncing boy!" she said. "Two can play at that game. If you're spieling about jails, you'd better make sure that you've ordered hot and cold water and velet service for your own little cell. You're going to need 'em before you get through serving your sentence."

I looked at Mary in terrified bewilderment. What horror was this which appeared to be threatening my husband—talk of cells and long sentences? I forgot my loathing of espionage, and found myself listening avidly for Dicky's reply.

When it came, it was icy in the chill of measuredness of the words.

"This is not the first time you have hinted at the very interesting prospect you have named. I ought not to waste a second upon your ravings, but for reasons which do not concern you in the least, I have decided to listen to you. But—I warn you—I am not a patient man. I shall not wait too long for you to make up your mind."

There was a note in his voice that spelled finality to me, although never has he used that utterly contemptuous tone to me. How well did this woman know his obstinacy, I wondered. Would she realize that he meant exactly what he said, and would she govern herself accordingly?

Woman Is Defiant.

That she knew very little about his real self was evidenced the next second when she replied with an air of bravado that I was sure was accompanied by a defiant toss of the head.

"So that's your line now, is it? Well—it doesn't go down with me, pulling that air of innocent ignorance when all the time you know d— well what we've got on you."

There was the noise of a chair being pushed back, then Dicky's voice with the frigidity down to zero.

"There is only one answer to that. You have nothing 'on me,' as you so very elegantly express it, but I was—let us say—curious enough to wonder what you thought you had, if, indeed, you are not letting your imagination run riot on the whole proposition."

"Imagination. Ho! ho!"

The exclamation was a sneer, but I was sure I detected a note of uncertainty in it.

"You'll find out what my imagination is worth before we get through with you. And now what is this answer you're broadcasting?"

THEATER

JEZEBEL, which is booked for the Ohio Sunday, has been eagerly awaited by the movie going public, partly because any Bette Davis picture is important and partly because the picture has been indelibly linked with "Gone With The Wind." Despite the protests of the Brothers Warner to the contrary, there have been rumors that "Jezebel" is a direct steal on Margaret Mitchell's great American novel. The "trailer" on the picture which has been running at the Ohio for the past week only increases the suspicion that this is true. There are four major characters—a tempestuous Southern belle of the Civil war period; the ruthless he-man who loves her, the gentle chap whom she loves and the other girl who is courageous in a gentle way.

Graduates From Westerns.

Dick Foran, who has been a "singing cowboy" in horse operas of the screen for some time, graduates into straight dramatic roles in "Over The Wall," the film version of Warden Lewis E. Lawes' story of life behind the walls of Sing Sing. The story smacks of real life, with high drama and plenty of punch. Foran is a prisoner who claims the attention of the governor by his singing in the prison choir. John Litel, who is forging to the front since his appearances in a series of patriotic short features, plays the prison chaplain, one of the major roles. June Travis plays the sweetheart of Foran and takes a hand in bringing about his release. The picture opens at the Madison Thursday.

Tom Sawyer on Screen

Hannibal, Mo., and all of the town folks of that homey little town which Mark Twain endeared to millions of readers, come to life again, this time on the talking picture screen. "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," dear to the hearts of thousands of grown men and women who became acquainted with the little rascal when they were children, comes to the screen in technicolor, bringing Tom and Huck Finn, Aunt Polly and Becky Thatcher, and Mrs. Thatcher, Muff Potter, Injun Joe and the sheriff. For years Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn have been regarded as the symbols of all wholesome, truly American boyhood. Tommy Kelly and Jackie Moran were chosen to play these roles in the screen version. May Robson and Walter Brennan have the roles of Aunt Polly and Muff. The picture will be shown at the Ohio the last half of the week, starting tomorrow.

The Gingham Girl.

The Janet Gaynor who appears in "Small Town Girl," at the Majestic, is the Gaynor who was once the brightest star in the movie heavens, the Gaynor who wore ginghams with charm and grace. She wears them again in this picture, reminding her loyal fans of her long-ago, rare performances in "Seventh Heaven" and "Street Angel." But she also wears sophisticated and smart clothing in the latter part of the picture. Robert Taylor is seen opposite her as the young medical student and later as a doctor. Binnie Barnes, Lewis Stone, Andy Devine, Elizabeth Patterson and James Stewart are in the cast of this re-issue. "Night Spot" shares honors with the Gaynor-Taylor feature.

Newspaper Story.

"My Dear Miss Aldrich," Ritz offering today and Thursday, is a newspaper story in which a pretty Nebraska school teacher inherits a New York newspaper and immediately goes to war with her managing editor who doesn't care for women in or around a city room. Walter Pidgeon is the editor and Maureen O'Sullivan is the school teacher turned reporter. They fight a bit and then get together on a big story which scoops the town. But in the long run the editor wins his point—with Cupid as his aid. The second feature is "Tovarich," brilliant comedy stage hit, in which Charles Boyer and Claudette Colbert are co-starred.

Today's Recipe.

Apple Meringue Pie—Peel, core and stew good tart apples and sweeten to taste. Put into a pie plate lined with crust, grate over it a little cinnamon or nutmeg, and put bits of butter over the top. Bake about 20 minutes or until crust is done. Cover with a meringue made of the whites of two or three eggs beaten stiff with two tablespoons of powdered sugar. Return to oven and brown slowly.

My Neighbor Says:

Garbage containers should be emptied daily during the Summer months and rinsed with cold water. Once a week scald them with hot soda water and scrub well, then dry in the sun.

If your privet hedge should be accidentally burned during spring cleaning do not dig it up. Cut it back almost to the ground. New shoots will spring up and in another year you will have a fairly good hedge.

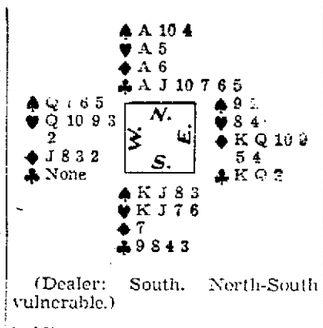
"The Authority on Authorities"

TRY TO REMEMBER

If your partner jumps your suit to game at some stage of the bidding, he doesn't necessarily show a lot of honor strength. Don't reach out aimlessly for a slam. Pause first to consider what he did on earlier rounds. Perhaps he merely has a great distributional fit with your suit, especially if he passed on his first turn.

The North player on this deal robbed himself of a 700 rubber because of his lack of attention to the story South had given of his holdings. When South passed originally, he announced that he did not have the strength for an opening bid. However, as the bidding progressed North failed to take that into account.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

The bidding started with North in the third position. He called 1-Club, East 1-Diamond, South 1-Spade, North 3-Clubs, and South with his singleton diamond, support for clubs and fair strength in the other two suits, decided he had sufficient strength to take the hand to game. North then took the contract to 6-Clubs.

North had no possible way to avoid losing two tricks in the trump suit, so was defeated one trick.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

After the lead of the heart A, how should South proceed to make 4-Spades?

CRACK RUNNERS SET FOR MATCH RACE IN FALL

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK — (INS) — Only the scratch of a pen, or rather two pens, officially confirming in writing what both owners have provisionally agreed to by telephone, seemed to stand today between the metropolitan racing scene and undoubtedly the most elabcrate and ornate match race in the history of the thoroughbred turf.

It plans to bring together the two distinguished scions of the Man o' War family tree, War Admiral and Seabiscuit, over the derby distance of a mile and a quarter at scale weights and thus settle once and for always the incessant bickering among partisans of the great pair. The time—next September. The place—Belmont park, Long Island. The inducement—a purse of $100,000. That, by the way, isn't an inducement. It's practically a provocation.

Charles S. Howard, owner of Seabiscuit, is quite patiently sincere in his intention to make the match. Anyhow, he spent seven minutes on the telephone yesterday from San Francisco, talking about it with Commission Chairman Herbert Buyard Swope, and paid for it himself.

"His only conditions," Swope said today, "were that it be a match race, so that there would be no interference with either horse, and that the purse be $100,000, since he already has been offered that much by a western track. I would say that, from Mr. Howard's standpoint, the race is as good as made."

Samuel D. Riddle, owner of War Admiral, seemed equally open to reason when contacted semi-officially by telephone.

He said that he considered the plan a "splendid idea" and would do everything possible to reach an amicable understanding with Mr. Howard. This latter shouldn't be difficult. The Seabiscuit man said he favored the autumn scale weights—when the 4-year-old Admiral and the 5-year-old Biscuit would each carry 126 pounds—but was perfectly agreeable to any figure that suited Mr. Riddle. There was nothing said about an "off" track, although the Biscuit scratched once in Maryland because of mud when the pair might have met last year.

AS FOR the $100,000, Joseph E. Widener, the purse-string party in racing here, was said to be "enthusiastic" by Swope and was understood currently to be "working on" C. V. (Sonny) Whitney. Actually, a lot of the money will come, as always, from E. Pluribus Sweeney, the man on the sidewalk. This designation isn't always clear, though. Sometimes, it almost seems as if the sidewalk's on the man.

Anyhow, Mr. Swope allowed as how his racing commission would permit a "nominal" increase in box office prices for the occasion, not I understand, in excess of $5 general admission. The box, or pew holders, of course will be conked for all they'll stand for, a figure that beggars estimate owing to the extreme density of the New York conk.

Briefly, then, there seemed to be only a few trivia and frivola to be swept aside to make this greatest of match races an accomplished fact.

Alabama Kid to Appear In Main Bout on Mitt Card at Armory Monday.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor

AN old Mansfield favorite will headline the professional boxing card to be offered by the Quality athletic club in place of the regular weekly wrestling show at the Armory Monday night.

Alabama Kid of Columbus, recognized as the colored middleweight champion of the world, will appear in the main go on the card with which the Quality club hopes to revive boxing interests in the city.

Kid's Foe Unsigned.

The Kid's opponent has not been signed, Matchmaker Tim Nolan announced, but he is dickering with the manager of another Ohio puncher whom he considers a fine foe for the colored scrapper.

Principals for the three six-round supporting bouts also have yet to be signed, Nolan stated.

The return of Alabama Kid to Mansfield fistic wars should be good news for the local fight fanatics, who have not been offered any professional punching entertainment since the Arena A. C. staged a pair of highly interesting shows (but financial flops) a year ago.

Although the Kid fought in Mansfield on only a couple of occasions, Mansfielders followed the slugger's climb up the fistic ladder.

The Kid has only recently returned from Colorado, where he has been campaigning for several months with marked success.

Since appearing in the city, the Columbus colored clouter has compiled an enviable record, which has brought him recognition as the champion middleweight of his race.

Disposed of English.

The Kid's last appearance in the city was made about four years ago when he disposed of Harry English of Toledo in the feature bout on the Delano club promotion at the Coliseum.

Although outweighed about 40 pounds, the Kid staged a sensational battle against English, and had put the Toledoan down for a count in the last round.

Alabama Kid and his opponent will be routed over 10 rounds.

Xavier, Western Join Buckeye

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Xavier university of Cincinnati and Western State Teachers college of Kalamazoo, Mich., were infant members of the Buckeye athletic conference today, following a "secret" meeting of the loop's executives at Chillicothe.

Only the approval of the athletic boards of the two schools—believed to be a mere formality since each had made a bid for membership—was necessary to complete their induction into the "toughest little football conference in the country."

Roll Flock of 150 Scores

A bowling oddity was provided in the doubles scoring of Judge Jerry Kalbfleisch and Jim Will in the American Legion state tournament at the Meder alleys yesterday.

In four of the six games, the doubles pair rolled 150 scores. Both Kalbfleisch and Will rolled dentical scores in the last two games. They garnered 950 pins.

Park Avenue Baptist Annexes 'B' Title

Trim First Lutheran, 16 to 12, In Playoff to Determine Church League Championship.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST won the Church Class B league championship last night at the Y. M. C. A.

Baptist tackled First Lutheran in a one-game playoff for the title and emerged with a 16 to 12 victory in a nip-and-tuck affair.

Although limited to a bucket in the opening half, the Lutherans fought desperately to overcome the lead after the intermission, but lacked the punch to come through.

The new champions blanked the Lutherans in the opening period to grab a lead they never relinquished.

Baptist was ahead, 3 to 0, in the initial frame, 6 to 2 at halftime, and 9 to 7 going into the final chapter.

C. Condon Stehle of the Baptist set the individual pace with four points apiece.

The playoff was necessary when the clubs finished the regular season with 16 wins and two losses.

Roll 3,234 Set Record

Chicago Birks Gain ABC Lead With Big Total.

CHICAGO — (AP) — They are shooting at 3,234 today in the American Bowling congress, the highest team score in the 38 year history of the nation's bowling classic.

Until last night no team had ever come within 35 pins of that figure.

It was emblazoned on the score board by the Birk Brothers Brewing Company team of Chicago, 21 years after it won the A. B. C. championship.

Jule Lellinger, captain and anchor man, and George Geiser, the lead-off man on the current Birk Five, were members of the team that won the championship in 1917 at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Last night Lellinger scored a 668 total and Geiser a 649 count. George Notz topped them last night with 712. Leo Krisch had 599 and Joe Traubenik 615.

While the Birgs were breaking the record, the Pabst Blue Ribbons of Milwaukee were collecting 3033 and taking fifth place.

Notz, with 712 already on the books, and Lellinger and Geiser with 668 and 640, respectively, ranked as potential condidates for top honors in the all-events.

Canzol Club Holds Meeting

New York School Receives Permission To Participate in Mansfield Relays

Schenectady Mott Terrace Application Approved by Ohio Commissioner.

FAME of the little track carnival Harry Mehock started 12 years ago to provide competition for his Mansfield high school athletes in preparation for the district eliminations is spreading eastward.

A few weeks ago, Dunkirk, N. Y., sought permission to compete in the 12th renewal of the country's most pretentious independent interscholastic track and field carnival to be held at Stadium field, Saturday, April 23.

Now Schenectady.

Today another request to participate was received by Mehock from Nott Terrace high school of Schenectady, N. Y.

Dunkirk cannot compete due to a schedule mix-up, Mehock has been notified, but the Schenectady school will enter, according to present indications.

Mehock today received permission from H. R. Townsend of Columbus, commissioner of the Ohio high school athletic association, to allow the Schenectady school to compete, despite the fact that the national sanction includes only Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Schenectady officials were immediately notified of Townsend's ruling, and informed that entry blanks were on the way.

Nott Terrace is one of the track powers in New York state, Mehock has learned, and he is anxious to have the school enter the competition which will attract the stronger mid-western teams.

The Schenectady school has won the eastern cross country toga of the United States 13 times in the last 15 years, the director of the Mansfield carnival has been informed. It finished second the two years it failed to win the crown.

Piles Up Titles.

During the past indoor season, Nott Terrace won the Dartmouth, Bowdain and Brown interscholastic championships, in addition to the eastern sectional meet, which it has taken 15 years in succession.

Dual meet victories were scored by Nott Terrace over Union, Williams, Colgate and Dartmouth freshman teams last spring.

No Captaincy, No Play---Sarazen

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (INS) — A larger rift appeared in the professional Golfers Association today following the declaration by Gene Sarazen that he would never play on another Ryder Cup team because he had never been named team captain.

Sarazen's blast, in which he declared the failure of George Jacobus, president of the PGA, to name him captain last year was an insult, came shortly after the close of the fifth annual $5,000 Masters' tournament here, in which Sarazen competed. "My record," he said, "stacks up favorably with that of any other pro, and I think I should have at least one shot at the captaincy of the team."

Bushnell Adds Track Victory

Bushnell emerged victorious in a Grade school track meet at Staduum field yesterday. The Bushnell team scored 23 points to edge out Brinkerhoff which collected 22 points, and Western finished last with 16 points.

The winners only scored two firsts, but copped enough seconds and third places to top the field. Brooks won the Pole Vault and 50-yard dash to give Bushnell its two firsts.

60-yd. low hurdles—Won by Banker, Brinkerhoff; Ernsberger, Bushnell, second; Haley, Brinkerhoff, third. Time: 9.1 sec.

Favored Yuncker Sports Appear In First Tourney Game Tonight

CLASS B quintets will headline the Gold Medal basketball tournament program at Y. M. C. A. tonight.

In the feature tilt at 7:45, the Junior Yuncker Sports, pre-tourney favorites, will receive their first test in an opening round game against the Mansfield Y. M. C. A. team. The winner of the affair advances to the semi-finals scheduled Thursday.

The Sports, composed of members of this year's Elks club entry in the City Class A league, will lineup with Kenny Lockart and Freddie Lewis at forward, Russ Hoff at the pivot position and Noel Morgan and Willard Lockhart at the guards. The strength of the Mansfield Y outfit is not known, but the club will probably give the favorites a real test.

Rex Billiards and the Willard Merchants meet in the other Class B affair which opens the activities at 7 o'clock.

The Class A division tilts are also on tap for tonight. The Willis Billiards face the dangerous Galion Barbers at 8:15, while the Reece Opticals will attempt to advance to the semi-finals against the Snappy Service outfit of Marion.

Tribe Evens Giant Series, Signs Webb

Obtain Infielder Recently Ruled Free Agent by Landis; Sodd Released.

LONGVIEW, Tex. — (U.P.) — A great display of long distance hitting today had enabled the Cleveland Indians to deadlock their spring exhibition series with the New York Giants at four games each.

The clubs were to meet here again today with Bob Feller and Johnny Humphries sharing the mound duty for the Tribe and Hal Schumacher working for the Giants.

Beats Giants, 6-3.

Cleveland tied the series yesterday at Bryan, Tex., when it turned back the National league champions 6 to 3.

The Indians were outhit 11 to 10, but six of their safeties were good for extra bases.

Five of Cleveland's runs were accounted for by home runs. Hal Trosky homered in the fourth with one on; Earl Averill hit a circuit drive in the sixth, and Bill Sodd secured a four-bagger with one on in the eighth.

Earl Whitehill, veteran southpaw, was Cleveland's starting hurler. He worked six innings, giving up five hits and one run. Joe Heving pitched the last three innings and was touched for six hits and two runs.

At the conclusion of the game Manager Oscar Vitt announced that Sodd, a rookie outfielder, had been released to Oklahoma City on option.

Strengthen Infield.

While Sodd was released the Indians simultaneously added another player to their roster by signing Jimmy (Skeeter) Webb, last year with the Columbus Red Birds of the American association. Webb, an infielder, was one of the 74 players recently declared a free agent by Judge Landis.

McGee Leases Possum Run Golf Course

Plans to Open Layout For Play In Near Future.

The Possum Run golf course will be opened in the near future under the management of Walter (Irish) McGee of 124 Marion avenue.

McGee announced today that he has obtained a two-year lease on the course from Mrs. Eva Swisher, owner of the property, with a three-year option.

Widely known in Mansfield golf circles, McGee will open the course for play as soon as the necessary improvements can be completed.

Whether any major changes will be made in the course this year is not definite, McGee stated, but he said that the tees and greens will be improved before the opening.

McGee served as president of the Empire golf league for two years.

Mrs. Swisher recently filed suit against the former lessees of the course for back rental amounting to $625. The petition asks for attachment on the club's equipment.

CHAPTER V

Gay pricked up her ears. She saw a very tall, very thin woman with flaming hair and flaming lipstick in a long, sheath-like garment which looked as if it were made of sheet copper. Strands of copper wire were wound about her arms from shoulder to wrist. Her open sandals disclosed orange toenails.

"Does she always dress like that?"

"Or more so," said Algy. "The little fat, bald man is the husband who prevides the cash—masses of cash. And the fellow who looks as if he'd just bought us all at a jumble sale is one Danvers. I don't know anything about him except his name, and I don't want to. And there's Cyril Brewster, the chap I was telling you about. I don't wnow who the lovely he's talking to it, but she's something to write home about, isn't she?"

* * *

Mr. Brewster was a thin, dark young man with a pince-nez and an earnest expression. Gay looked at him, and set him down as a bromide. Then she looked past him to a vision in blue and silver. She said, "he's talking to my cousin, Sylvia Colesborough.

Algy gazed. "I say—is she really your cousin?"

Gay laughed without quite knowing why. Why should you laugh when your best young man is quite obviously struck all of a heap by some one else? She laughed and said, "I suppose she is."

"How do you mean—you suppose?"

Gay laughed again. "Well, she and Marcia and I were at school together, and when we were pleased with each other we were cousins, and when we quarreled we weren't. I think we had the same great- great- grandfather."

"Definitely a cousin," said Algy. "I say, she's marvellous—isn't she? Will you introduce me? I'd like to cut out Brewster, and I'd like to be able to say I'd danced with anything as marvellous as that."

Gay flew a little scarlet flag in either cheek, a little scarlet danger flag. She said in a small, meek voice, "And what happens to me, darling? Do I practice being a wallflower, or do I dance with Cyril?"

"You dance with Cyril," said Algy firmly. Then he grinned, and with the grin went back to being schoolboy of ten years ago. "Unless you'd rather be a wallflower. You'd be awfully decorative, but I don't suppise you've had enough practice to do it really well. I say, you don't mind, do you? I expect it did sound a bit curt, but I would like to dance with her—just once—just to say I'd done it."

"All right, you shall. She dances beautifully, too, but your Cyril Brewster's got her for this one."

"Do you want to dance it?"

Gay shook her head. "I'd rather look on. Besides, I want to talk to you."

Algy's eyes followed the blue and silver vision.

"She's wasted on Brewster," he said with regret. "He'll bore her."

Gay suppressed a giggle. "He won't. The man doesn't live who can bore Sylvia."

Algy looked at her darkly. "You don't know Brewster. He'd bore any one, and he'd do it as perseveringly and efficiently as he does everything else."

"Then I'd rather be a wallflower," said Gay.

Algy smiled upon her kindly. "Oh, no, you wouldn't. But I'll rescue you after one dance—I swear I will. Anyhow, he's quite an efficient dancer."

"Algy, I want to talk to you."

"All right, I'm here. What do you want to talk about?"

"I want to ask you something."

"All right, ask away. I haven't got a kingdom, but if I had one, you could have half of it. I can't say fairer than that."

And he hadn't meant to say that. It just slipped out. There was something about Gay sitting up rather straight and looking rather earnest that made it slip out. The blue and silver was a godsend because he mustn't, he really mustn't slip over the edge of being in love with Gay, and when she looked at him with something young and a little forlorn behind the sparkle in her eyes, the edge was dangerously near.

"Algy, what would you do if some one tried to blackmail you?"

"I should tell him to go to blazes," said Algy promptly.

Gay considered this; it was no use suggesting it to Sylvia. She sighed and said, "Suppose you couldn't—I mean some people can't tell people to go to blazes—they just can't."

Algy's agreeable features took on an expression of gravity.

"I think they had better try," he said. "And if they can't manage it themselves, I think they had better go to the police."

"But suppose," said Gay, "you couldn't go to the police."

"Why couldn't you?" said Algy quickly.

Gay looked serious too. "The thing you were being blackmailed about might be the sort of thing you couldn't chat about with a policeman."

Algy began to feel dreadful perturbed. "Look here, is this a hypotetical case, or is somebody blackmailing you?"

Gay's eyes sparkled, her cheeks flamed.

"What do you think I've done?"

"I didn't think you'd done anything."

"Well, you don't get blackmailed for nothing—do you?"

"I don't know—I've never tried."

"Nor have I!"

There was anger between them under the word-play—quick cut and thrust anger. It surprised them both. It surprised Gay so much that she caught her breath and said, "We're quarrelling. I don't know why. We've never quarrelled before."

"It's never too late to mend." Algy looked at her with repentent eyes. "Let's get back to the blackmailer. What does he want? It's absolutely fatal to start giving money—the more you give, the more he'll want, and the more he'll get. Seriously, Gay, if you know any one who is being blackmailed, tell them that."

"It isn't money—he doesn't want money."

"What is it then?"

Gay's lively color died. She looked uncertain, pale, frightened.

"I don't think I can tell you. It's something—it might be something dreadful."

She jumped up. The music was stopping—just in time! For what had she been going to say? And why was it so dreadfully easy to say things to Algy? It scared her. She spoke a little breathlessly.

"Come and meet Sylvia if you want to. She'll be snapped up in a second."

Sylvia looked surprised and pleased when Gay slipped a hand under her arm.

"Gay—darling! How did you get here?"

Gay's other hand indicated the slightly abashed Mr. Somers.

"He brought me. He's one of the kind hearts, and it was his scout deed for the day. His name is Algy Somers, and as a reward he would like very much to dance with you. Algy—Lady Colesborough. He knows Francis—a little."

"I don't think——" began Sylvia. Then she met Algy's admiring gaze and wavered. "Mr. Brewster—and then I'm dacing with Mr. Wessex-Gardner—"

"I shouldn't," said Algy. "I really, really shouldn't. I know 17 women in London who are crippled for life because they were reckless enough to dance with Brewster. He's a confirmed toe-treader and ankle-kicker. Brewster, this is Miss Gay Hardwicke, and she will be kind enough to give you the next dance if you ask her very nicely." He gazed at Sylvia, offered her his arm, and when after a moment of indecision she took it, he bore her away in triumph, leaving behind him a darkly annoyed Mr. Brewster, and Gay Hardwicke, who smiled prettily and had a horrid little jabbing pain in her mind.

Cyril Brewster was a polite young man. He said, "May I have the pleasure?" and Gay said, "Yes."

It was a very efficient performance on Mr. Brewster's part, but it lacked thrill. There was plenty of swing in the music, but what is the good of swing in the music if there isn't any swing in your partner? Gay caught a glimpse of Sylvia floating in Algy's arms. Sylvia really did float—like a cloud, like a wave, life a leaf in the wind.

Cyril Brewster said, in the voice which indicated that a remark is being repeated for the second time, "Have you know Lady Colesborough for long?"

"I'm so sorry," said Gay, "I was thinking about something else. What did you say?"

Mr. Brewster repeated his remark, presently. "I said, 'Have you known Lady Colesborough for long' ?"

"Twenty years." said Gay, and then giggled because he looked as if he didn't believe her. "She's a cousin, you know, and we bit each other in the nursery—at least I did the biting and Sylvia did the kissing and making friends afterwards."

"She must have been a lovely child," said Cyril Brewster earnestly.

"Every one says so. I expect that was why I bit."

Cyril put his pince-nex straight. He did this constantly, but it never stayed put. "I have met her only three times," he said. "I think she is extremely beautiful."

"Every one thinks so," said Gay firmly.

"It is unusual to find ony one with so many attractions. As a rule there is something lacking, but Lady Colesborough has everything. Of course, I do not know her well enough to speak of anything but externals. If it is possible to judge by those. her disposition should be as charming as her face."

MARKET MOVES DOWNWARD AS DEMAND WANES

Small Offerings Force Stocks to Forfeit Part of Gains Scored In 4-Day Rally.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market in early dealings today gave up a small part of the broad gains scored on a four-day rally from the 1938 lows touched last week.

Small offerings were sufficient to push prices down as demand waned from traders who had been covering short positions. A downturn in international issues in London provided a selling cue here.

Rails sagged as reports from Washington shed doubt on prospects for legislatio:s to help the carriers at this session of congress. Bonds also lost rallying force. Major commodities set a narrow course.

Mid-week business barometers still showed industry novering around the low levels of the recession.

Power output last week, the Edison Electric Institute reported, was off 7.8 per cent from the corresponding 1937 week.

"Iron Wage" said it seemed "unlikely" April steel production would rise much, if any, above the March rate.

Curtailment of the rail industry's buying power was indicated by estimates in financial quarters its February loss topped $40.000.000, forcing roads to draw on cash reserves to meet expenses.

The Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotion

By DR. WILLARD L. SPERRY

Wednesday, April 6. "He that shall blaspheme against the Holy Ghost hath never forgiveness." Read Mark 3 22-29.

The problem of evil finds its most acute statement in the terms of sin. Sin is something more than the sum of our vices. It is the elemental tendency in us to go wrong and to do wrong, become self-conscious, deliberate and willful.

The Gospels hold out their untiring promise that all sins can be forgiven—with one exception, that of the sin against the Holy Ghost. Theologians and moralists have never wearied of making catalogues of man's sins, in some order of hierarchical succession, in the hope that they might thus discover that crowning sin which cannot be forgiven. There is little hope of thus identifying it. When thirty years ago the Pope condemned Modernism he said that it was not one more heresy, but the sum of all heresies. The sin that cannot be forgiven is not any single sin, but the essence of all sinfulness. It is the mood in which we say, "I don't care," raised to the nth power. It is the profane and cynical temper which consciously affirms that there is nothing good, sacred, divine in our world. God himself cannot forgive it. We may be thankful that we are not often liable to this sin, but we do well to give even the remotest approach to it a wide berth.

Prayer: Almighty God whose Holy Spirit within us calleth unto thee in thy heavens as deep calleth unto deep, deliver us from treason against this most sacred centre of our own souls; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

NAZIS PREDICT HUGE VICTORY

85 Per Cent Vote For Hitler Seen for Austrian Plebiscite.

BERLIN—(INS)—German Nazis today predicted an 85 per cent victory for Hitler in the Austro-German plebiscite fixed for Sunday although the common hope here is that a second Saar with its famous 91 per cent majority will be achieved.

The question at stake April 10 is merely the expression of approval or disapproval of the Austro-German anschluss, a fait accompli from the moment Hitler's troops marched into Austria.

But an overwhelmingly favorable vote on the part of the German and Austrian public will be regarded here as the best proof to the outside world that by mutual will both countries of German blood have been reunited.

BOSTON WOOL

BOSTON—(AP)—(U. S. Dept. Agr.)—A few bids were being made on fine and half-blood territory wools but actual sales were slow yesterday. Asking prices were quite firm at prices slightly above what buyers were willing to pay freely. Some fine Ohio Delaine wool has been sold at 27 to 29 cents in the grease. Graded one-quarter blood bright fleece wools were moved at 26 to 27 cents in the grease.

has adjourned. Schwartz usually has voted with the administration.

The only members of the committee who have opposed TVA consistently were the two house Republicans. Except Donahey and Schwartz, not then in congress, the others voted for the original TVA act. Donahey is among those who said they have not decided whether they would accept positions on the committee.

Donahey is a onetime printer who became governor of Ohio before coming to the senate three years ago. Some of his votes since then have been against administration measures.

Jenkins and Wolverton were the only members who did not vote for the utility holding company act of 1935. In addition to investigating TVA, the committee will be charged with investigating private power companies in the TVA area.

The two Republican representatives are former state legislators. Jenkins served also as county prosecuting attorney.

2 YOUTHS HELD

Jailed as Patrolmen Probe Ownership of Auto.

Two 21-year-old West Virginia youths were held in jail for investigation today while state highway patrolmen sought to determine the ownership of a high-priced car which they were driving.

Corporal Scott B. Radcliffe said the pair was arrested at 11:30 p. m. yesterday on route 42 just south of the city while driving a new model car. While one of the youths had an operator's license and certificates of ownership, Radcliffe said he was checking with West Virginia authorities for further information concerning activities of the pair.

He said the youths had told him that they had been on a visit to Cleveland and were on their way home. The youth who claimed ownership to the car admitted having only a monthly income of $85, Radcliffe said.

Commenting on the sharply contrasting attitudes of the two women regarding air travel, Time said, "For those two pronouncements, U. S. airlines could have hugged Mother Dirlam and choked Mother Ward, for the greatest obstacle in the development of air travel is the public's fear of flight."

Mrs. Dirlam and her father left Mansfield March 9. They remained in Fresno for some time, but are now in Palo Alto, where the mother is being comforted and cheered by fellow students and friends of Tracy and Mary Lou at Leland Stanford university.

In letters to her mother, Mrs. Rufus Tracy, Park avenue west, Mrs. Dirlam reiterates their intention to stay in California until the lost plane or its wreckage is found. Letters from Mr. Tracy say that the search has never been given up, despite announcements to that effect by TWA officials, and that the ground force of searchers has been redoubled.

NEW U. S. PUBLIC WORK PROGRAM BELIEVED NEAR

Mounting Relief Costs Leads Administration Aids to Study 'Priming' Measure.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Mounting relief costs have revived talk among administration officials of possible establishment of a huge new Public Works program, not only to prime industrial pumps but to give direct employment to thousands.

A decision has not been reached, officials emphasized today, pointing out that arguments had been advanced both for and against such a course.

Any basic improvement in employment, they said, necessarily depends on better business conditions. Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, declared that rising unemployment would necessitate a substantial increase in federal relief expenditures when present funds were exhausted.

While he would hazard no prediction as to what sum President Roosevelt would recommend to congress, he recalled that $1,750,000,000 was appropriated for the present fiscal year, and added:

"There's going to have to be a lot more than that spent next year. You can't spend less than that and keep the peace."

Funds Spent By June 30.

Funds now available, other officials said, will be exhausted by the end of the fiscal year, June 30. In January, Mr. Roosevelt tentatively projected a $1,000,000,000 appropriation for the 1938-39 year. Some relief experts say now that this figure may have to be more than doubled.

Contributing directly to the unemployment situation, these officials said, are several factors, including:

1. The absence of marked business improvement this spring, coupled with the usual prospects for sluggish summer business.

2. The end in a few weeks of Social Security Compensation payments to an estimated 1,000,000 unemployed. This will be brought about, it was explained, both by the expiration of the 12-week limit on payments and by the exhaustion of state funds.

3. Reductions in farm production, under the new farm bill. One informed official said that crop curtailments would throw many agricultural laborers out of work.

For the three months remaining of this fiscal year, the WPA has about $500,000,000 left from an original appropriation of $1,500,000,000 and a recent deficiency allotment of $250,000,000. During the week ending March 26 there were 2,394,856 persons on work relief, compared to the peak depression load of 3,035,852 in Febraary, 1936.

A public works program, if approved, could become operative about the same time that legislation goes into effect to increase business loans by broadening the fiscal authority of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The RFC would be empowered both to make Public Works loans to states and municipalities and to exercise wide discretion in lending to business enterprises. The bill carrying this authority needs only technical congressional action before it will be ready for President Roosevelt's signature.

which were being eliminated by the telephone and electric companies.

Include Park Projects.

The $6,000 for park improvements would be the city's share of a proposed WPA project to renovate city parks.

The park program which has been approved by WPA district offices, is awaiting an appropriation from council before going to Washington for final approval. It calls for the expenditure of $25,000, largely federal funds. The city's share is set at $6,000.

The project designed to give employment to 80 men for four months calls for a beautification program that will include the building of walks and ramps through the parks, tearing down old buildings and beautifying unsightly spots, and installing equipment to make the parks practical outdoor recreational centers.

Miller also recommended that $9,000 in bonds be set up for proposed extensions in the storm sewer system to provide for employment this fall for WPA.

DAVEY TALKS AT RALLY TONIGHT

Governor's Third Term Bandwagon Rolls Into City For Nine-County Meeting.

and city and county office holders in Mansfield had been invited to the dinner meeting preceding the address at the high school.

Although Kallmerten said "there may be a few brief talks by other guests" at the dinner, the rally program calls for an address by Davey, selections by the Mansfield high school band and three vocal solos by Mrs Elsie Stillwagon of Mt. Vernon.

He 'Chooses To Run.'

In making his announcement for a third term last night, the governor said. "Some years ago Calvin Coolidge said, 'I do not choose to run,' and a few months later he died of heart failure.

"Since I don't want to do either, I do choose to run, right here and now."

The audience greeted the announcement with a noisy demonstration, as an orchestra played "Fight the Team Across the Field," Ohio State university marching song, and a huge banner on the stage was unfurled, reading "Re-elect Gov. Martin L. Davey."

Although he choose to open his campaign in the section where he sent national guardsmen to settle a steel strike last summer, Davey made only slight reference to the labor trouble.

Most of his talk, which was broadcast over a state-wide radio network, was in defense of the state highway and liquor departments and in praise of his two terms.

Says State Free of Debt.

He pointed out that "no state has a better financial record than the good old Buckeye state," adding that Ohio is entirely free of debt despite tax reductions.

Upholding the state social security system, he said, "We are now living at a time when it is the duty of the government to think of its people and that is what this administration is doing."

"You and I are no longer in fear of the poorhouse, and some day we hope to annihilate that thought forever," he asserted.

The highway department, he said, is saving millions of dollars annually by using "hot mix" road materials.

"I m willing to take the responsibility for the blacktop program, although I know little of engineering and nothing of the preparation of cost estimates for road jobs," he said

"That program enables us to resurface old roads at a cost of $11.000 a mile while new pavements cost $50 000 a mile"

Refers to Senate Quiz.

He referred to the senate committee's investigation into the liquor department.

"Out of 1,600 employes in that department, the smearing committee found one officer who raised his hotel bill from $2 to $32, three who padded their expense accounts $5 each, one who illegally held a liquor agency, and that trucking contract which I don t like"

He said $65 000 000 already has been deposited for unemployment compensations and payments could start this year if congress and the legislature made minor amendments in the law He said that amount would take care of 300,000 unemployed for 16 weeks.

Should Davey be successful in his campaign this year he would be the second governor to serve three terms in Ohio. U. S Senator Vic Donahey is the only man ever to hold the office for three consecutive terms

Bricker Hits At Davey.

While Davey was speaking at Youngstown, former Atty. General John W. Bricker of Mt. Sterling officially opened his campaign for the Republican nomination for governor at Akron, attacking Davey.

"Regardless of the present patronage dictatorship with huge spending in Ohio, we can and will win, because I am convinced the Republican party will nominate men and women who represent the average American home."

Another development in the state's political activity yesterday was a statement of friends of Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland that he might seek the Republican nomination for governor unless a threatened relief collapse is prevented.

Burton replied, however, that "I'm not considering it—I want to do the job I'm on here."

Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, former lieutenant governor, already has announced for the Democratic nomination against Davey, and it was believed by political observers that Secretary of State William J. Kennedy might seek the nomination on the Democratic ticket.

A Farmer's Diary

April 5.

TODAY as I walked through a bramble thicket, I stepped within one foot of six last year's quail. I looked straight at the spot at some curious fungus growth upon an old, low stump. I did not see a moving twig or leaf or hear the slightest sound. Then, suddenly, the quail flew up and startled me until I trembled in my shoes. There was magic in those leaves to change so swiftly into living things.

Last spring I climbed an elm to find a tree frog. The tree had numerous lichens on its bark especially near the crotches I looked carefully where every branch had grown from the main trunk. I did not find him My position wearied me, and I shifted my hand to another branch In its crotch I touched something cold and softer than the bark. Just three inches from my eyes, nestled the tree frog in a tiny crotch, bespeckled with lichen-like blotches across his back

Some weeks ago one winter morning I walked about the snowy field to look for tracks of animals I saw a shadow move across the bank to the west but nothing else. I followed parallel for some distance down the little stream, when I saw the shadow turn westward to the farmhouse. It was the neighbor's housecat — white as the snow itself.

Last May I hoed some berry plants and as I stooped to pull the grass, my fingers touched what looked like an oval pebble, but it was warm. I looked more closely, and there among the grass and sticks and last year's leaves blotched with brown and black were two killdee eggs, perfectly blended with their surroundings The mother bird, some distance off, feigned crippled wing and leg.

Our fields and woods are full of quiet falsities—of instinct so clever that I often wonder how the wild folk can possess such sagacious cunning and never know the art of reason.

POLICE TO WAR ON SPEEDING IN SCHOOL ZONES

Bates' Order Follows Accident In Which Pupil Was Hurt; Check Intersection.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates today issued a "crack down" order on speeding and reckless driving in school zones while children are going to and from the buildings.

The order came on the heels of an accident Monday in which a seven-year-old school girl was injured by an automobile while on her way home at Bowman and West Fifth street.

At the same time Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert said that city engineers had been instructed to make a survey of the hazardous intersection with a view to eliminating the "hump" at the north side of the crossing.

'Pedestrian's Nightmare.'

Styert labeled the intersection at the top of the steep Bowman street hill as a "pedestrian's nightmare." He said motorists unintentionally pull over the croswalk when approaching the crossing from the north, in order to avoid stopping on the sharp grade. This, he said, failed to give the pedestrian a chance to cross the street without walking out into the West Fifth traffic lane.

Styert said he had instructed city engineers to make a survey of the intersection to see "what could be done about eliminating the steepness of the grade at that point."

Bates' order was sounded to all first shift officers to give particular attention to speeding and reckless driving past school houses during the hours when children were going to school and coming home.

The chief cited the state traffic code that sets a limit of 20 miles per hour in a school zone at such times and during recesses.

He said he had numerous complaints of speeding in school zones in the past few days and ordeerd the officers to "bring in" the violators.

STILL MYSTERY

Week-Old Slaying of WPA Worker Remains Unsolved.

The week-old mystery of the slaying of Sherman Reed, 58-year-old WPA worker, in his cabin just east of the city remained unsolved today as authorities attempted to tie meager clues together in their search for the killer.

Reed's body was found last Wednesday night in his cabin with the skull crushed. He apparently had been struck down from behind as he stood at a table in his kitchen

Sheriff E. P. Long awaited a report from Federal Bureau of Investigation headquarters at Washington on a partly re-traced copy of a note found in Reed's cabin which he hopes may prove a valuable clue to the identity of the slayer. He expected a report on the note today or Thursday.

The sheriff and City Detectives Lee Remy and Oscar Krupp who are working on the case believe the murdered father of 10 children had quarreled over money and had been watched by his assailant for weeks before the slaying.

CALLS 2 MORE IN STOCK QUIZ

Securities Chief to Testify as Accused Ex-Examiner Files Perjury Charge.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Two new witnesses were called today in the investigation of stock sales in Ohio as Edwin Judy, former attorney-examiner for the state "blue sky" division, sought the arrest of Earl W. Pfitzer, Cincinnati, on perjury charges for testimony that Judy was paid for "services" in connection with securities transactions.

Dan T. Moore, chief of the securities division, said Harold Lynch, Dayton, former examiner for the division and now a federal government employe, would be the first witness today. Gordon Lawrence, Cincinnati, former auditor for Vossler and Vossler, Cincinnati brokerage house, also probably will testify during the day, Moore said.

Judy filed an affidavit with Justice of the Peace E. C. Miller here alleging that Pfitzer testified falsely that Judy made corrupt use of his power as a public officer. Justice Miller issued a warrant for Pfitzer's arrest which was sent to Cincinnati for service.

Pfitzer, former sales manager of Vossler and Vossler, Cincinnati brokerage house, was a witness at a second hearing regarding the firm's sale of stock of Ohio Mines, Inc., and other dealings in which Judy and Edward T. Carney, former assistant chief of the "blue sky" division, were alleged to have profited illegally.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6 1938

If you really aspire to "see America first" you won't have much time left for foreign travel.

One great need seems to be for houses that can be paid for without interfering with established spending habits.

Another sign of the times is the person who must call up to find out his congressman's name before writing a letter telling him how he should vote.

Showdown On TVA.

THERE can no longer be any possible excuse or reason for delaying a thorough and impartial congressional investigation of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The now discharged chairman of the Authority, Arthur E. Morgan, has long demanded such an investigation, charging that it would disclose serious irregularities and "internal politics" in the management. Leading newspapers and publicists have pointed out time and again that matters have long since passed the stage where anything but an open investigation could satisfy the public interest No less a person than Senator McNary has been unable to get accurate information as to its program and costs.

In the senate, opposition to an investigation came mainly from the influential "father of the TVA, Senator Norris. But late news reports say that Mr. Norris has taken another stand, and has agreed to the need for an inquiry. And it is a telling fact that some of the strongest original congressional supporters of the Authority have gone on record in favor of an honest and thorough-going investigation.

It is now up to congress. And congress should remember that the people will not be satisfied with a "whitewash," conducted by congressmen whose primary interest is to keep from the public anything that might be discreditable to the majority of the TVA directors. As Chairman Morgan has said, the investigation must be impersonal and representative of all points of view.

A Legitimate Complaint.

UNDER "Readers Forum" head, on this page, appears a letter that merits attention and thought.

It touches on the subject of beautification of home surroundings being retarded by pet dogs that are permitted to roam away from the premises of their owners, to the detriment of flower gardens and shrubbery in the entire neighborhood.

This is a matter that has been frequently discussed in Mansfield, and about which nothing in particular has been done.

Properly restrained dogs, kept within the bounds of their owners' property, undoubtedly have a place in family life, but their owners should also recognize a very definite responsibility in connection with owning a dog or cat and should feel an obligation to their neighbors and to the community as a whole.

Older residents will recall that it was once common practice to have fences around yards in order to protect against damage from trespass. This is still being done in many cities where emphasis is placed on making surroundings attractive with well-kept flower beds and shrubbery.

There should be no need, however, of reverting to the seeming exclusiveness of fences in order to guard against damage from either dogs or destructive children who have not been trained to respect property rights.

Here is something that must be seriously considered in connection with any project to make Mansfield a more attractive city and to encourage residents to plant flowers and shrubbery in their own yards.

It appears that a "good neighbor" policy can be made local as well as national.

Has Reason to Be Thankful.

THE importance of the government's proposal to help the persecuted of other lands is brought home to us in a vivid way by a school boy in New York City. This sixteen-year-old lad came to America three years ago, a refugee from Germany. Recently he wrote a prayer of thanksgiving inspired by his experience in America. It was printed in his school paper and has been made public by the superintendent of schools, who thinks it ought to be read by the whole nation. Here are some of the things for which this foreign-born boy is thankful:

The opportunity to be educated in the United States of America: the privilege of saluting the flag, participating in national ceremonies, singing the national anthem without having some one tell him that he may not because of his race: living in a country governed by democracy instead of force.

He is thankful for many privileges unheard of in Europe, for being in a country which gives him a chance to realize his ambitions, where "the youth of all races have a tomorrow, rather than in my native land where the youth of a race is without a tomorrow."

"I am thankful that I live in a land where one is not persecuted. I am thankful that I am happy and free."

Such observations and gratitude make a native American very thoughtful. Here are matters we take for granted, which are new and wonderful to a fellow human being.

No 'Undue Risk' In Air Travel.

FOR a community recently shocked by loss of lives in air disasters, there is little consolation in figures compiled by the bureau of air commerce indicating that no undue risk is taken by air travelers.

During the last six months of 1937, it is revealed, there were three fatal accidents on commercial airlines, in which 29 passengers and eight crew members were killed.

In the same six months in which the three fatal crashes occurred, the scheduled airlines of the United States flew 1,839,799 miles per accident. They flew 10,618,964 passenger-miles for every fatality.

While air travel will doubtless continue to grow in volume, and may become commonplace within another generation, it is quite likely that many present-day adults feel more secure on a train, after studying railroad statistics, than on a plane.

You can divide the nations into those who create refugees and those who take care of them.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

IT'S NOT ABOUT the European situation that people write letters to this column. Nor is it concerning "dictatorship" or "fascism" or "communism." It is concerning economic conditions—and solely that.

Possibly the people of the entire world feel the same way. Perhaps political and self-appointed leaders do not sense this reality. Probably the majority of political and international problems are because we have not solved our economic difficulties. One statesman has said so—Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He is trying through his reciprocity trade treaties to ease economic pressure. His efforts can be merely a pittance against a tremendous problem.

Reorganization of government departments, investigation of the TVA, enlargement of the navy and the army, enlarging credit facilities for business, taking care of weak railroads — all that fought and fought through (with much bitterness over some) may mean nothing in retrospect because the major problem remains unsolved.

A PLAN?

The United States lags possibly because neither of the major parties has a definite plan. Any affirmative suggestion is met with a storm of negation from the other side.

In this respect, the Soviet Union is ahead. Its entire system may seem wrong to us, but at least it has a plan. The same is true of Nazi Germany. Looking beyond the ideologies of those countries, which Americans abhor, they have a definite scheme.

Our freedom in the United States is not likely to perish so much from anybody seizing power as from default in meeting our socio-economic crises. In one of these recurring crises, an emotional leader might arise, sweep the people with him—and deprive them of all their liberties. That is what occurred in Germany during an economic crises brought on by the stupid Versailles treaty. Italy previously had undergone much the same experience. And Russia, under the czars, had become intolerable.

So far, we have not had such an emotional leader large enough to sway the people. The Longs, the Coughlins, after all, have been small men, and narrow. That may not always be the case.

And President Roosevelt cannot even hold his own party leaders in line. He is having the usual experience of a Democratic president.

A SUGGESTION

This column recently suggested that this country ought to encourage people to develop new ideas. Referring to that column, R. W. Hautzenroeder, automotive and mechanical engineer, of Mansfield, O., has these suggestions to make:

"There is, at present, a bill (H. R. 9259) before the committee on patents to provide for the compulsory licensing of patents. This bill, if adopted, may be of some value in preventing the 'pigeonholing' of important patents, but, on the other hand, will probably work to make a patent worth even less than at present, thereby discouragaing invention and research.. I know that I, for one, would hesitate before spending several years and considerable capital on the development of a new invention if it were possible for a political appointee to compel the licensing of some other company on their own terms.

"Our patent situation is admittedly far from perfect and the average man's conception of a patent as 'an invitation to lawsuit,' has some foundation in fact. My own personal opinion is that, instead of a law for compulsory licensing of patents, we need some form of encouragement that would induce manufacturers to risk developing a few of the patents we already have.

"I feel safe in concluding with the opinion that: for each case where manufacturers are eager to operate under a license that is being sellishly withheld there are at least a dozen cases where a patent would well repay development and the patentee or holder is absolutely unable to secure backing or find a licensee under any terms Manufacturers will seldom discontinue a profitable line for something admittedly better until forced to do so by competition.

"If the government really wanted to stimulate invention and progress, it could readily arrange to finance needed development on the principal of the R. F. C., with control in the hands of a board of scientists and technicians."

World Situation Still Uppermost Subject

—By J. CLAUDE ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The international situation in Europe and the Far East continues to be the main center of interest in the national capital, despite TVA and the reorganization bill.

Although temporary flurries of interest in congressional proceedings may take the headlines away from foreign news for a day or more, the principal focus of conversation in official circles is the possibility of war, and diplomatic developments on the world front.

General consensus here is that the United States is well-isolated against involvement in any conflict for the next year or so by the present temper of both the people and of congress. The feeling is that the pacifistic temper in the democratic nations, at least, will very probably prevent a general world war for the next year.

THUMBS DOWN

The knowledge that the American people are definitely against foreign entanglements or alliances which might lead to war recently caused the department of state to turn thumbs down on a number of international projects which they otherwise might have encouraged.

One of the most spectacular of these was an arrangement whereby the United States, Great Britain and France would co-operate in a financial deal to construct roads, highways and railroads in Soviet Russia.

The democratic governments would sanction the establishment of credit corporations to finance numerous great construction projects in Russia, and thus strengthen that country's defense capacities against Japan, Germany and Italy.

Proponents of this scheme conferred with the governments of Britain and France before bringing the matter to the attention of the United States. Both the other countries had given their tentative approval, but Uncle Sam, for reasons of national policy, finally decided against any involvement of this kind.

The originators of this plan were two men, an ex-diplomat and a financial promoter. They spent five years developing their idea into a workable project. They went from country to country, seeking unofficial audiences with foreign ministers and with great industrialists.

The plan, as submitted to the state department here, was based on the following preamble:

"The future expansion of Germany, Japan and Italy is certain to be in the direction of Soviet Russia; to forestall the unlimited growth of these three 'Fascist' nations, it is proposed to strengthen the hand of the 'communistic' nation, Soviet Russia.

"By bulwarking the defensive power of Soviet Russia, and rendering that nation more capable of defending itself against attack from either the east (Japan) or the west (Germany and Italy), the democratic nations would be helping to preserve the world balance of power. While helping to maintain the territorial status quo in Europe and Asia, the democratic powers would themselves be increasing their armaments so that they could deal with both the Fascist and the Communist nations if a later realignment of powers should occur.

"Germany has her eye set on the rich wheat-growing Ukraine region: Italy desires Bessarabia; Japan would like a huge chunk of oil-bearing Siberia. The only way to prevent this territorial aggrandizement is by making Russia capable of defending these areas."

THE REASONING

So ran the reasoning. Based on this hypothesis, the method of curbing Fascist aggression in both Europe and Asia would be to construct means of transportation so that Russia could move her huge army into action at any point with the least possible delay.

To this end, the promoters of the plan suggested that three credit corporations be established, stock in each of which would be equally divided among the French, British and American governments.

One corporation would devote itself to financing the construction of highways, another to the building of railroad lines, the third to the improvement of maritime communications. These projects, it was argued, would also have the effect of stimulating domestic employment and industry through the letting of contracts for the manufacture of cement (for the highways), river boats, highway machinery and railroad equipment.

Russia, being a nation rich in resources, could easily pay for all the equipment purchased, and a lucrative commerce might be established between the Soviet Union and the democracies. This would raise their level of prosperity and place them at a further advantage over the Fascist nations, the promoters told government officials.

This plan was under consideration and study for many months before the department of state in Washington finally turned it down. There is little question but that American sentiment would have been overwhelmingly against such a plan.

Must Men Be Sturdy Oaks?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

A QUEER THING is happening to American romance. You won't find it reported in Front Page Scandals . . . nor recorded in Divorce Complaints. Yet it is the cause of nine out of ten domestic misunderstandings and splits, and of endless, secret embitterment.

Briefly, the trouble rises from the old notion that ALL REAL MEN MUST BE STURDY OAKS . . . AND ALL LADIES HAVE A RIGHT TO BE CLINGING VINES.

Where'd the idea start? Off hand, it looks like Nature's plan for the preservation of helpless women and children. But primitive women WEREN'T helpless. Save for scant moments out for child birth, they were as strong and savage as their mates, as able to protect and forage for their babies—and actually did a far larger part of the tribal labor.

Was the theory, then our earliest social racket, created to satisfy male conceit and serve female convenience? Whatever its source, it certainly served that purpose and became the accepted basis of male and female relationship and family life.

So, from history's dim dawn until our own yesterday, every woman has expected HER man to be a fearless, ruthless and triumphantly successful Protector and Provider, regardless of his personal nature or peculiar environment . . . and has believed herself to be Tricked and Done Dirt if he wasn't.

But then came The Machine Age—and a World war—with the men in the trenches and their womenfolk clamoring for jobs, votes and equality — and getting them all. So, after the smoke settled, what do we find? A newly emancipated sex with a fairer attitude toward males, a wiser understanding of male nature and obligations, and a willingness to co-operate on a platform of real equality, and to junk the old, romantic notions which no longer fitted the Status Quo?

It that what we find, now that woman has become free n' equal?

Like heck it is! Instead, we find the maddest sex confusion the race has ever known . . . increased sex hostility . . . and women rising to incredible heights of unreasonableness, backed by vote-conscious jurors and judges!

For though Mom and The Girls now have jobs . . . and though they have plainly lessened Dad's industrial opportunities fifty per cent by taking those jobs . . . THEY STILL INSIST THAT DAD MUST BE A STURDY OAK, OR BE RATED AS A HEEL.

So what? So the battle's on—and the divorce mills are working overtime.

THE PLAIN FACT IS — ALL MEN AREN'T STURDY OAKS . . . WERE NEVER DESIGNED TO BE . . . AND COULD ONLY MAINTAIN THE ROLE AS LONG AS WOMEN STOOD BACK AND LET THEM STRUT THEIR STUFF WITHOUT ANY HUMILIATING COMPARISONS.

Nor are men to blame for this fact. Men, naturally, "come mixed," just as women do. It is as normal for a man to be sensitive, timid and slow-tempoed as it is for a woman, and no more shameful.

For years men have accepted and supported timid, inefficient wives without fuss, and been grateful for their contribution of tenderness and charm. Then why should an emancipated young wife—who insists on holding a man's job instead of doing domestic chores—feel cheated because her mate also reverses roles and fails to be a Caveman?

Never were women in general so unreasonable—or men on such a spot—as they are today. MANY A MAN TAKES TO DRINK IN A VAIN EFFORT TO KEEP UP THE OLD FRONT . . . SO HE CAN BARK WHEN HE WANTS TO WHINE.

It's futile and unfair, Sisters. If you want a man, take him for what he IS, Sisters, not for what you think he should be according to a Hollywood scenario or a romantic novelette. And thank your lucky stars if he proves to be a gay-hearted, loyal and loving friend . . . EVEN THOUGH HE LACKS A LITTLE HAIR ON THE CHEST.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — This is a story with a happy ending.

It concerns Lucia, who lives on Long Island and will be 15 on her next birthday. I can show you her house, and perhaps even arrange an introduction, if you are interested.

Lucia wanted to become a dancer. Always she dreamed of swirling gracefully to soft music in a circle of flame-colored light.

But when she was 11 she was cut down by infantile paralysis. . . . The doctors said it was one of those things. . . . Maybe she would grow out of it in time. . . . Meanwhile, there must be care and attention and long, long years of rest. . . . You know, wheel chairs, and nurses, etc.

IT WASN'T so bad after she got used to it. People were kind and she had friends who told her stories about little girls who became famous dancers. They came to sit with her in the sunshine and they brought her flowers, and after a while three years went by and she was 14, almost 15. . . .

"When I get well, I'm going to do thus and so," she would say. . . . "When I get well, I shall do this and that and the other." . . . Most of the conversation and all of her plans were predicated on that simple little qualifying statement: When I get well. . . .

And she believed it, though the doctors were careful not to be over-enthusiastic.

Among the callers who came to sit by her side in the sun, on cheerful days, was an old Italian who served as a handy-man around one of New York's big pet shops.

And one day he brought her a kitten, with a bow of ribbon around its neck. . . . "It's easy for me to get kittens. . . . We have them at my store. . . . I hope you like it?" . . . He didn't tell her that he had saved a few pennies from his earnings every week over a period of months to buy the kitten for her. . . . She crowed with pleasure.

SHE kept it with her when she wheeled herself in the sun, and she carried it with her on those infrequent occasions when some one came by and took her for long rides in an automobile. . . . And so she had it with her that slippery day when they were riding out through Long Island and the car crashed into another car with such violence that the windshield was broken and she was thrown clear.

Two hours later, doctors were amputating her left leg just below the knee. . . . And when she came out of the ether the first thing she asked for was her kitten. . . . Miraculously, it was all right. . . . They told her it was all right, that it was unhurt.

"Oh," she cried, "and he's all right? You're sure? You're sure!"

And when they assured her again and promised to bring it to the hospital she closed her eyes for a moment, and then opened them. "Really," she said, "I've never been so happy in my life."

I told you this was a story with a happy ending.

Appropriation Hearing Comment.

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — You never really learn the amazing number of things the government is doing until you read the report of hearings on the appropriation bills.

The hearings are held in secret in house committee first, and senate committee next. It is most fund to read the house committee reports which are given out afterwards. The members seem to be possessed of a sort of childish curiosity and want to know whether the government pays for the wine the diplomats serve at formal banquets and whether a battleship can lick a coast defense gun in hand to hand battle.

The committees call the top-ranking generals, cabinet officials, admirals and diplomats as witnesses to explain why they should get all the money they ask for. If Rep. Sam Jones of Squeedunk wants to know if the state department has any spies he is likely to get an answer, although if his questions become too rambling his fellow committee members will squelch him.

Just for sport, thumb through the house committee hearings on the war department appropriations bill.

400-VOLUME HISTORY

ON Page 99 we learn that the army is compiling a documentary history of the American expeditionary forces in the World war.

It will run to about 40,000,000 words, that is about 400 volumes the size of "Gone With the Wind." The Civil war history ran to 70,000,000 words, almost two times as long. It was finished in 1902. The World war job is about one-fourth finished—in 20 years.

Another 30 pages and you learn that the army makes no allowance for tips paid by officers when traveling. The officers get eight cents a mile, compared with 20 cents for members of congress. That has to cover everything.

The coal commission gave the army a jolt on Page 299. For years the army has bought its coal in summer when prices were cheap. But the coal commission issued an order last summer preventing any coal company selling anybody more than 30 days' supply. New coal prices were being fixed at the time and the commission didn't want the country to load up on low-priced coal. So the army has to buy 30 days at a time, in comparatively small lots at high prices. It messed up the army budget wonderfully.

ARMY QUIZ

THE congressmen really went to town with their questions about the new bombers. Rep. Engel of Michigan grew quite excited to learn that radio sets for the Boeing flying fortress bombers cost $10,000 each. The Douglas bomber has five complete radio sets for various uses, but none costs $10,000.

Now about those big 18 inch-gun battleships. Rep. Engel was curious as to whether they would just stand off and blow the coast defense to pieces. Major General A. H. Sunderland, chief of coast artillery, was emphatic about that. Said he:

"There is no development in sight which will render ineffective the tremendous advantages that seacoast fortifications have over battleships."

About Dogs That Trespass.

Editor News-Journal:

We read with much interest in Monday's News-Journal your editorial "'Let's Look Around' In Mansfield," particularly that paragraph wherein you mention the importance of keeping our premises neat and clean in appearance and cultivating beautiful flowers and shrubbery in our yards.

To this we certainly agree. However, let us impress those who read this editorial, that it is impossible for those who take pride in their flowers and lawns to accomplish much when people who have no particular hobby for beauty allow their pet dogs to run over other people's property.

Some people seem to think that because they are nuts about their pups, that everyone else is too. Therefore, these pups and dogs of all colors and sizes are allowed to make a dumping ground of your yard and also dig and scratch over your flower beds as they choose. That's all wrong, and should not be allowed.

We believe that a dog has no more right to run over other people's property than a horse or cow, therefore, we believe it would save a lot of cuss words and high temperature if owners of such animals would realize these facts.

Mansfielders Begin 1 to 15 Year Terms on Charges of Cutting to Wound.

John Campbell, 48, and Harvey Day, 33, both of Mansfield, were in the Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus today serving 1 to 15 year terms on charges of cutting with intent to wound.

Campbell was found guilty by a jury in common pleas court Monday and Day pleaded guilty before Judge C. H. Huston Tuesday just before he was to go on trial. They were taken to the penitentiary yesterday afternoon by Sheriff E. P. Long. Both men are colored.

Campbell was convicted by a jury after less than an hour's deliberation on a charge of cutting George Miller, a collector for the Moskins Clothing company, last July when Miller asked Campbell for a payment on a bill.

Day, who had previously pleaded innocent to an indictment returned by the grand jury, admitted an attack on Charles Holliday two weeks ago at a North Adams street address.

Both Campbell and Day were represented by Atty. C. F. Creedman.

Arthur Jordan, also colored, changed his plea to guilty to an indictment charging operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, and was placed on probation for two years by Judge Huston.

IRON WORKER HELD IN MURDER

Bag of Feminine Clothing In Possession of Workman Held Important Clue.

chased in Los Angeles. The Fromes were in Los Angeles in January and went there frequently.

Sheriff William Fowler at McCamey said he had asked Ferguson to account for having feminine clothes in his possession. Ferguson had replied that he and his wife were hitch-hiking east from California and that his wife had deserted him, leaving her clothes behind. Fowler said that letters found on Ferguson indicated that he and his wife had been separated for several years.

Frome, the husband and father of the murder victims, was aboard a Southern Pacific train with the bodies en route to Richmond, Calif., where the funeral services for the victims will be held Thursday.

Mrs. Edward Kreiger of Galion is a sister of Mrs. Weston G. Frome and an aunt of Miss Nancy Frome, victims of the murder.

3RD PARENT-CUB DINNER DATE SET

Regional Scout Executive to Speak at Event April 29.

The third annual Parent and Cub dinner will be held Friday, April 29, at the Central Methodist church, according to an announcement made today at Boy Scout headquarters.

Speaker at the dinner will be Perle Whitehead of Cincinnati, deputy regional Boy Scout executive. Toastmaster for the affair will be Freh Huber.

Cubbing in the scout movement is for boys between the ages of nine and 11 who are too young to register as scouts. Arrangements for the dinner are in charge of a committee made up of John Eisaman, chairman, Clarence Shill, Edwin B. Davis, Robert Campbell, Eugene Evans and Paul Snyder.

BAPTISTS TO SEE THEMSELVES IN MOVIES AT CHURCH SUPPER

Members of the Park Avenue Baptist congregation and church school will have an opportunity to see how they look and sound to other people when sound motion pictures of various departments of the church are shown at a family covered-dish supper at 6:30 p. m. Thursday at the church.

The pictures will show the beginners, primary, junior, intermediate, senior and adult departments of the church in session as well as the church choir under the direction of Lawrence S. Frank, minister of music.

The pictures also include messages from Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor, and Dr. C. C. Kidwell, superintendent of the church school. The film is concluded by pictures of the congregation leaving the church.

The pictures were taken a few months ago by Harry Delaney, local motion picture projector, who will show them.

Guest speaker at the dinner will be Dr. D. R. Sharpe, executive secretary of the Cleveland Baptist association and a noted Christian leader and author.

Following the dinner the annual election of church officers will be held. The nominating committee is comprised of Wallace Campbell, Mrs. S. Glenn Vinson and Judge C. H. Huston.

Mrs. Perry Bush is chairman of the supper committee.

PRESENTS PLAY

Mt. Vernon Theater Guild to Stage O'Neill's 'Ah Wilderness.'

A number of Mansfield people are planning to go to Mt. Vernon on Thursday, April 21 to attend the performance of Eugene O'Neill's "Ah Wilderness," which will be presented at Memorial theater by the Theater Guild of Mt. Vernon.

The play has been one of the best of the American crop of the past decade. The theme revolves around an average American family, stressing the relations between father and son. It is replete with humor, homely philosophy and a "puppy love" story.

Jury to Decide If House's Infested With Termites

A suit involving a house in Bucyrus which allegedly was infested with termites when it was sold to Ralph Tennant of near Crestline last June, will be taken before a jury in common pleas court Thursday morning.

Naming Edith B. Pry, of Shelby, defendant in the suit, Tennant contends that the property was misrepresented to him when he purchased it for $1,800, and that he later found it damaged by termites.

He asks that a note and mortgage for $600 still due on the property be cancelled and that he be awarded a $400 refund on the deal, representing the difference between what he considers the property worth and the $1,200 cash payment on the house at the time it was purchased.

Atty. J. D. Sears of Bucyrus will represent Tennant and Atty. Arden W. Wisman of Bucyrus will be counsel for the defendant.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Bell-ans so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Do This If You're NERVOUS

Don't take chances on harmful opiates and products which you know nothing about. Use common sense. Get more fresh air, more sleep and take a reliable, time-proven medicine like famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—made especially for women from wholesome herbs and roots—let it help Nature tone up your system and thus calm jangly nerves, lessen distress from female functional disorders and make life worth living.

For over 60 years one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Pinkham's Compound—let it help YOU.

I was ashamed to go to the Doctor!

Little did I realize that most women who have children suffer from piles (hemorrhoids). My pain became so acute that I was frantic. I couldn't walk. I couldn't sleep. I couldn't sit down. Finally I went to my doctor. He told me that I had hemorrhoids, and recommended a suppository to be used privately at home.

If you suffer as I did, let me recommend that you get a $1.00 box of ZIRIL suppositories containing 12 treatments. This wonderful prescription relieves the agony and torture within a few seconds. No narcotics or harmful drugs. Easy to use. Can be depended upon to give you quick comforting relief from pain.

P.S. ZIRIL also comes in an ointment for the relief of rectal pain, minor bleeding and burning of external or protruding piles.

Too Weary From Work To Play

Some people are always worn out. Their work is a strain. They seem always too tired to play.

They miss much happiness. And often needlessly. For frequently it is constipation that is sapping away strength. Early fatigue, mental dullness, sleeplessness, can all be the results of constipation.

So keep regular. And to assist Nature, use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets! For, in addition to definite, gentle relief, they give mild stimulation to the flow of bile from the liver without the discomfort of drastic, irritating drugs. That's why millions use this laxative every year. Get Olive Tablets at your druggist. Only 15c, 30c, 60c.
